Mitchell: Link To ITT Case 'False'

Didn't Touch Topic In '71 Talk, He says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell told Senate investigators today he discussed general antitrust policy last year with ITT's president but said suggestions linking him to a settlement with the corporation were "totally false and totally without foundation."

Mitchell, who resigned recently as head of the Justice Department to become President Nixon's campaign manager, denied there was any mention of the International Telephone & Telegraph case in his talk with Harold S. Geneen.

The Senate Judiciary Committee is investigating charges that an out-of-court settlement of three antitrust actions against ITT was involved in a pledge by the giant corporation to help underwrite the Republican national convention by as much as $400,000.

The former Cabinet member emphatically denied allegations in a memorandum by a ITT lobbyist, Mrs. Dita D. Beard, that Mitchell was "helping us" in the antitrust case.

Columnist Jack Anderson published the memorandum, setting off the investigation into the fitness of Mitchell's deputy, Richard G. Kleindienst to become attorney general.

A member of the committee, Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., demanded that a White House aide, Peter M. Flanigan, be called as a witness.

Flanigan's name has come up during the hearings and Eagleton described him as "a man who works in the shadows ... only with the fattest cats."

Mitchell told the committee he wanted to address himself to "my relationship —or rather my non-relationship" —with the case.

He told of twice having had contact with Geneen. The first time, Mitchell said, was at a White House dinner May 27, 1970, also attended by 45 business leaders. He said that was "purely social."

"My second contact with Geneen was on Aug. 4, 1970, in my office," he continued. "My office calendar shows that this meeting could not have lasted more than 35 minutes. It might have been shorter.

"The meeting was held at Geneen's request to discuss the overall antitrust policy of the department with respect to conglomerates. I assented to the meeting on the express condition that the pending ITT litigation would not be discussed. Geneen agreed to this condition. The pending ITT litigation was not discussed at this meeting."

ITT issued a statement in New York Monday saying Geneen met last year with more than a score of high government officials, including Mitchell and Flanigan, to protect the Justice Department's antitrust policies.

Others in ITT's list included Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans, two other White House aides, John D. Ehrlichman and Charles W. Colson, and Dr. Arthur Burns, Nixon's former economic adviser who is now chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

Mitchell testified that he disqualified himself from the ITT antitrust case because his former law firm had done legal work for an ITT subsidiary.

Mitchell said that after this, he never discussed or communicated with anyone in the Justice Department's antitrust division about the cases.

"At no time have I talked to any representative of ITT or any of its subsidiaries concerning the litigation or the settlement negotiations," Mitchell said.

"I told him this was not the department's policy," he testified, "and advised him that our policy was to bring litigation only where there was a showing of anticompetitive practices."

Mitchell said he never told anyone in the department about his meeting with Geneen.

Mitchell then related that he had met on four occasions with Felix Rohatyn, an ITT director.

"None of these had anything to do with ITT and the department's litigation against ITT was never mentioned or discussed," Mitchell declared.

Of his contact with Mrs. Beard, Mitchell said his one encounter with her was at a reception and buffet supper at the governor's mansion in Kentucky on Derby day, last May 1.

He told the committee: "As I recall this incident, Mrs. Beard approached me to complain about the treatment that ITT was receiving at the hands of the Justice Department. I advised Mrs. Beard that I had disqualified myself with respect to this litigation and could not and would not discuss it with her ...

"A few minutes later, Mrs. Beard again approached me on the subject matter. I believe twice, and I repeated my desire not to discuss the subject matter and advised her that I did not appreciate her pressing the subject."

Brit Hume, an associate of Anderson, testified last week that Mrs. Beard told him during an interview that she and Mitchell discussed the ITT settlement and the offer for the GOP convention at the Kentucky encountdr.

In her memo to an ITT official, dated last June 25, Mrs. Beard wrote Mitchell "is definitely helping us, but cannot let it be known."

Mitchell, testifying under oath, said he was not involved "in any way in any negotiations" which led to the selection of San Diego as the convention site.

"I have never talked to any representative of ITT about the San Diego site or any matter relating thereto," he declared.

Blackie's Pasture Parcel Goes For Tiburon Park

By MARC NURRE

Tiburon Mayor Denis T. Rice last night announced an agreement for city acquisition of most of the 6.5 acres of land in Blackie's pasture near Trestle Glen.

Rice told fellow city councilmen the agreement was with the Tiburon Peninsula Foundation and Samuel M. Shapero, owners of two-thirds of the pasture which will become a playground when planned realignment of nearby Tiburon Boulevard is completed.

Shapero, the city treasurer, has agreed to donate his one-third of the pasture to the city and the foundation has agreed to let the city take over its $340 per month payment on its third, Rice said.

The city now must negotiate with Gerald Connell, owner of the remaining one-third, according to Bert K. Balmer, city manager.

Connell and his relatives, of Los Angeles, originally owned about four acres of the pasture. Two are being bought by the foundation for $34,000, of which $6,000 has already been paid. The city will take over the foundation's payments of $340 per month, according to Balmer, the city also will take over the foundation's option on purchase of the remaining two acres at a price to be agreed upon.

Councilman Albert H. Sennett called on the public to thank Sapero for his gift. "I think this is probably the largest gift ever made to the city," he said.

The council, turning later in the evening to the realignment plan, ordered the city's plan of the route the street should take sent to the state Division of Highways, which will do the work.

The plan, drawn by city engineer Stanley M. Bala, was approved last week by the city's planning and park and recreation commissions. It calls for widening the boulevard to four lanes to Stewart Drive, and for connecting two landscaped play areas on either side of the road with a tunnel.

The council also voted 3-1 to ask the division of highways to drop the speed limit on the boulevard, install bright lights on crosswalks, put a caution sign at every crosswalk, and crack down on speeders along the boulevard.

A group of about 15 area homeowners appeared before the council to ask for the safety measures. One woman, a crossing guard in the stretch of the boulevard to be realigned, told the council of hazards the road presents. "At least once a week I have to jump back or I have to pull one of our young crossing guards back out of the path of a car," she said.

Bala said the division of highways is studying whether a traffic light is warranted there. He estimated the cost of a traffic signal at $20,000 to $30,000 and said the state would bear half the cost.

The city council also postponed indefinitely a planned "work session" with Police Chief Michael Lafferty on department policy when the city manager and others agreed the police department could be better dealth with at budget time.

The council postponed until next meeting a proposal for establishing an association of county and city governments within the North Bay area.

Nixon Sets April Trip To Canada

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon will visit Canada April 13-15, the White House announced today.

In an announcement, issued simultaneously by the Canadian government in Ottawa, the White House said the visit would give Nixon and Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau an opportunity "to discuss current international issues and matters of bilateral interest to the United States and Canada."

Gerald L. Warren, deputy White House press secretary, said Mrs. Nixon would accompany the President on the two-day trip, described as an official visit.

The Nixons are expected to go to Ottawa, but Warren was unable to say whether he would visit any other Canadian cities.

Nixon met in Washington with Trudeau last Dec. 6-7 to discuss Nixon's subsequent trip to China.

The two leaders also met in June, 1969, at ceremonies marking the 10th anniversary of construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway. They conferred first at Messina, N.Y., then flew to Montreal.

The President is expected to give Trudeau a fill-in next month on the approximately 20 hours of talks Nixon had with Premier Chou En-lai in China, Feb. 21-28. Canada has diplomatic relations with the Peking government.

Mrs. Gandhi Wins West Bengal Vote

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's ruling Congress Party won a majority today in the former Marxist stronghold of West Bengal.

The Congress Party won 142 seats in the 280-member Bengal Assembly as last returns came in. The Communist Party Marxist (CPM) so far has won only four seats out of 176 results declared.

Open Space Concerns Hub Audience

By JAY GOODWIN

About 130 people turned out last night to voice concern over haphazard land development and rapidly disappearing open space in San Anselmo and Marin County.

The three-hour meeting was the third of four sessions in this year's town hall meetings.

Audience and panelists spent most of the evening asking questions: How can we stop development? Where can we get money to acquire open space? What can be done about the downtown area? Who's going to pay for all this?

There were few answers.

The group also wrestled inconclusively with flood control problems.

No formal action or straw poll was taken by the body. Instead, the audience, a four man panel and moderator David G. Leach simply aired their views on a wide range of environmental problems.

The four panelists were Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr.; Harold Watkin, a San Anselmo landscape architect; Paul Brand, publicist for the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, and Pierre W. Joske, director of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Department.

Every speaker — from the panel and the audience — favored preserving the undeveloped ridges and hilltops that surround the city.

Arrigoni spoke of possible joint-powers agreements between San Anselmo and the county or the city and its neighbors to facilitate purchase of undeveloped land. He also suggested that the county spend more money for acquisition of open space.

Mary Donnelly called greenbelts surrounding the communities along the eastern population corridor of Marin vital if each town in Marin is to maintain its own identity.

"We don't want to look like the peninsula in 10 years," declared someone. "You can't tell one city from the next down there."

Brand described an ordinance being considered by the air pollution control district which would empower it to prohibit any development on existing open space if it would increase contamination of the air.

Brand's description of the sweeping ordinance kicked off several attacks on land development. One-by-one, members rose to describe development's disadvantages.

Merchant Mozart Kaufman, commenting on the effect of development on local commerce, said, "The more people who come in, the more business I'd have. But I'd rather starve a little bit and love the place I live in. I could go to San Francisco if I wanted more business."

Capping the audience's disapproval of haphazard development, Judy Ainsworth stood up and asked, "Is it possible to have a one-year moratorium on all building in Marin County?"

After some hestitation, Arrigoni answered, "No. I don't think so." He explained that a total ban on construction was considered legally indefensible by the county counsel.

After much discussion of the merits of open space, City Councilman Warren R. Perry matter-of-factly told the assemblage, "The San Anselmo tax rate is $2.25. Something approaching 20c of that went to parks and recreation. If we wanted to acquire any significant piece of land, it would mean a higher tax rate. It's as simple as that."

As the meeting moved along to the question of downtown San Anselmo, Harold Watkins observed that "most of the stores near the (Tamalpais) theater are dilapidated." He said,

Petaluma Is Firm On Limited Five-Year Residential Growth

The Petaluma City Council agreed last night to hold firm to its decision to limit development to 500 living units per year for at least a five-year term.

In a special meeting on how to put into effect the environmental design plan with its restrictions on growth, the council agreed informally that development should be split evenly with 250 eastside units and 250 westside units.

The council decided the count on residences should be done on a fiscal year plan from July through June. Since the moratorium on rezonings and annexations was lifted March 6, the council agreed the first year should be extended to 15 months to run through June 9, 1973, and permit 625 living units to be split evenly on both sides of town.

Planning Director William C. McGivern said plans have already been approved for 136 units on the eastside, leaving 176 to be allotted and 210 on the westside, leaving 96 to be allotted.

Councilman Robert E. Daly, a member of the planning commission, recommended that a one month — "open season" be established in which developers must submit all construction plans for the coming year. He recommended that an eight-member committee be appointed to screen applicants within the building limit and choose which would benefit the city the most. Both the planning commission and city council would hold public hearings on the committee's decision.

Daly and the commission have recommended the committee include two planning commissioners, a member of the Petaluma Board of Education, a member of the Old Adobe School District, a ranking officer from the police department, fire department, a representative of the public works department and the city council liaison to the planning commission.

Daly and the commission also recommended that mobile homes and apartments be included in the 500 living unit limit. The only exceptions should be individually built homes and developments of three living units or less.

The commission originally suggested the "open season" period be set for April each year, but developer John J. King, objected saying it would conflict with building schedules and that October or November might be better. Mayor Helen Putnam said a meeting with developers would be called soon to determine the best schedule for submission of plans.

The council agreed that if less than 500 living units are built in any year, the number remaining can be carried over to the following year.

A developer, however, could not receive permits for a 100-home subdivision annually for three years and then build 300 homes at home. The screening committee could approve a 500-home subdivision for a developer on a five-year basis.

Fleeing Honor Farm Escapee Nabbed In Novato Car Ramming

After a high speed chase, Novato police captured a fleeing escapee from the Sonoma County Honor Farm today by ramming the stolen car he was driving.

Captured after a brief scuffle was Victor R. Van Wagner, 28, who had escaped from the honor farm at the Sonoma County Airport in a Sonoma County sheriff's station wagon, police said.

Shortly after 9 a.m., Novato police were notifed that Van Wagner was southbound on Highway 101 in Cotati with a Sonoma County Sheriff's unit in pursuit at about 90 to 100 miles an hour.

Sgt. Ronald C. Schanacker and Lt. Lynn T. Stoutt, in a Novato patrol car, joined the chase at Rancho Olompali at 9:06 a.m. California Highway Patrol officer R. W. Ward set up a roadblock at San Marin Drive and Highway 101, but Van Wagner eluded it.

After he entered Novato, Van Wagner suddenly turned west on Vallejo Avenue. The Novato police unit, with Schanacker driving, missed the turn, but opted for a different route to head off the fleeing vehicle.

"We went out First Street, over to Grant Avenue and then west on Grant," Schanacker said. "When we got to Seventh Street, he was rounding the corner and I broadsided him. He went on the sidewalk and spun around."

The stolen car wound up at the entrance to the parking lot at Mayfair Market, and Schanacker said he rammed it again.

"He jumped out on the passenger side and ran toward the market and I grabbed him by the top of his coat and the seat of the pants." A scuffle followed, Schanacker said.

Van Wagner was in custody at 9:10 a.m., just four minutes after Novato police joined the chase at Rancho Olompali.

Stoutt suffered cut knuckles in the scuffle and was treated at Novato General Hospital.

Sonoma deputies, highway patrol officers and another Novato police unit arrived at the scene within moments of the first collision.

Novato police said Van Wagner was a Marin County prisoner assigned to the Sonoma farm and had been convicted of burglary. Details of his escape were unknown. He was held by Novato police, pending transfer back to Sonoma County.

There was moderate damage to both the Novato police car and the Sonoma sheriff's unit.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Top Priests' Goal — Ending War

DENVER (UPI) — A quick end to the war in Vietnam drew a top priority label yesterday as Rev. Frank Bonnike, president of the National Federation of Priests' Councils, told the group's national convention of the hurdles he hopes to clear in the next few years.

Bonnike

Bonnike, a candidate for reelection to the presidency of the NFPC, which represents 30,000 American Roman Catholic priests, told national convention delegates in Denver the NFPC is vital to the healing of a deeply polarized church.

"Anything less than a national organization would mean a return to paternalism, and to parochialism, to controlled communication and to club culture," he said. "It would be a return to the days when the few told the many what was good for them."

The NFPC has been active in civil rights and in resistance to the draft, the Vietnam War and such traditional church laws as those covering celibacy and birth control. Its avowed goal is to commit parish priests to the causes espoused by such activists as Rev. James Groppi and the Berrigan brothers.

Apollo 15 Trouble

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A stream of flaming fuel apparently burned through some lines and caused the collapse of one of Apollo 15's three parachutes in August, mission director Chester M. Lee said yesterday.

The other two parachutes were not damaged and lowered astronauts David R. Scott, Alfred M. Worden and James B. Irwin safely into the Pacific Ocean on their return from the moon.

The astronauts dumped six pounds of hydrazine fuel from the command module's control rockets after the parachutes were deployed, to reduce the hazards for recovery forces. Fuel also was jettisoned on seven previous Apollo missions.

Lee said tests showed that hydrazine coming from a hot engine nozzle creates a 12-foot flame like a flame thrower. None of the earlier Apollos had parachute troubles xut Lee said some of Apollo 15's parachute suspension lines apparently drifted into the flame.

Enlistments Lag

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Enlistments for the armed forces are lagging despite stepped-up inducements offered, such as higher pay.

This point was made to a Senate Armed Services subcommittee hearing yesterday by Roger T. Kelley, assistant defense secretary for manpower and reserve affairs.

Kelley said there appeared to be no chance that "we can beat" the goal of achieving an all-volunteer Army by July 1.

Arms Anniversary

GENEVA (UPI) — Sweden told the 10th anniversary meeting of the Geneva Disarmament Conference today that, during its 10 years of talks, there has been a tenfold increase in world armaments.

Swedish negotiator Mrs. Alva Myrdal, who has led her country's delegation since the conference began March 14, 1962, said there has been progress in maintaining "hope and interest" in disarmament.

Egypt Talks War

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Prime Minister Aziz Sidky, in the strongest statement by an Egyptian official in months, has proclaimed Egypt ready for war against Israel.

Sidky, in a speech at a public rally in Aswan, said Monday "the time has come to realize our hope of liberating the land and regaining our rights after nearly five years of preparing for that objective.

"What was taken by force can only be regained by force," he said, "and the Egyptian armed forces are capable now of realizing what is required of them. Therefore, the day on with they will move to liberate the land is drawing nearer."

Black Assignment?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — State Department officials said today the assignment of a black diplomat to South Africa — a step long considered by the department — may occur soon.

The idea of assigning a black specifically to South Africa, a nation marked by artheAparth-eid racial customs, has been considered for some time. Now, the officials said, it is possible the department may be able to announce such an assignment in the near future.

The department sources were contacted after Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., made public a reply he received to a letter urging that the department assign a high ranking diplomatic official to South Africa.

David M. Abshire, assistant secretary for congressional relations, told Javits that such an assignment "is in fact receiving our active and most serious consideration."

Truce At End

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — A 72-hour truce proclaimed by the militant provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army (IRA) ended at midnight with an outbreak of bomb blasts and gunfire which killed three more men.

Two men, one of them a known IRA member, were shot to death during an intense gunbattle with British troops in Londonderry shortly after the truce ended. A young man was shot to death in Belfast shortly before the truce ended.

Revenge Deaths

DACCA (UPI) — Reliable reports said yesterday that revenge-seeking Bengalis stabbed and beat to death 300 to 1,000 Biharis in the southern city of Khulna, tossing their bodies into a nearby river to be washed out to sea.

The reports said the victims included women and children. Another 250 Biharis were reported being treated at Khulna Hospital, mainly for stab wounds and beatings.

The deaths came in the wake of a withdrawal of Indian troops from the new country of Bangladesh.

Lon Nol Sworn In As Chief

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Lon Nol swore himself in today as President, Commander-in-Chief and Prime Minister in a ceremony enlivened by cries of "long live the republic" and the releasing of hordes of colored balloons and peace doves.

He is expected to name his new government shortly and already there were demonstrations by university students against a man they fear will be included—former acting Premier Sisowath Sirik Matak, denounced by the students as corrupt and tainted with royal blood.

Placards and posters calling for the total ousting of Matak were hung from the walls and windows of three colleges at Phnom Penh University. Students also circulated hundreds of leaflets calling for support of their cause.

The leaflets recalled the Student Congress resolution of March 9 expressing "absolutely no confidence" in Sirak Matak. Foreign observers said the mood of the students was reminiscent of that two years ago when they stormed the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong embassies in violence that preceded the ouster of Prince Norodom Sihanouk as chief of state.

Before he took the oaths of office today Lon Nol walked up to Matak and embraced him, a gesture observers took to be a show of the inseparability of the pair who were closely allied in the Sihanouk ouster.

Nixon Sets Busing Plan; Secrecy Lid

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon has settled on the course of action he will propose to handle the busing issue, and will reveal his decision before the middle of next week.

The White House gave no hint on the substance of Nixon's plan, except to say that aides have yet to translate the President's broad concepts into specific proposals.

Nixon has been deciding whether to support a constitutional amendment against forced busing or to deal with the problem through legislation. Previous reports indicated it was unlikely he would choose the amendment approach.

A spokesman said Nixon would make his decision known within 10 days in a written message to Congress rather than in a broadcast statement. The White House had said previously that Nixon wanted to make his choice on the forced busing issue before today's Florida primary —but to withhold announcing his decision until after that election so that voters passing on busing issues on the ballot there would not be influenced.

Ronald Ziegler, the president's news secretary, said Nixon was not looking for an election year issue in the busing problem but rather "he is looking for action to deal with a problem ... action now."

On Capitol Hill, a House Judiciary subcommittee was in its third week of hearings on various constitutional amendment proposals to deal with busing. Monday's session saw testimony from four Michigan lawmakers who said they represented 73 members of the 110-member Michigan Houfe in their plea for an antibusing amendment.

A court-ordered busing plan involving Pontiac, Mich., mainly prompted their appearance, they said.

South Viet Jets Attack Red Convoy — Rip Tanks, Trucks

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese jets blew up three Soviet-built tanks and eight of 27 Molotova trucks today carrying supplies to the site of a fierce battle between guerrillas and South Vietnamese troops. Five Communists were believed killed in the battle Monday.

The South Vietnamese command said the convoy—the biggest sighted in the area in recent years—was attacked in the Central Highlands near the Cambodia, Laos and South Vietnam borders.

The areas, long a Communist stronghold, has been the scene of steadily increasing Communist activity. On Monday a South Vietnamese paratrooper patrol ran into a force of about 100 guerrillas and killed 64 of the Communists,the South Vietnamese said.

A second major battle occurred farther to the north near the old capital of Hue. In that fight, a battalion of South Vietnamese—about 650 men— and a battalion of Communists fought most of the afternoon. The South Vietnamese said they killed 68 guerrillas.

One American was wounded in a mine explosion near Saigon.

The command said the convoy was six miles inside South Vietnam and six miles northwest of Monday's battle site when 20 South Vietnamese Air Force A37 twin jet fighterbombers made their attack.

Aerial observation indicated at least five men in the convoy were killed, the command said.

"I think the convoy was carrying supplies for the unit that was hit yesterday," a spokesman said.

First Major U.S., China Business Deal

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The first major business deal between the United States and China has been approved.

The Commerce Department Monday granted a $2.2 million permanent export license for a satellite ground station built by RCA Global Communications at Shanghai.

Red Troops Attack Near CIA Base

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)—A battalion of North Vietnamese troops launched a ground assault today against Skyline Ridge, one of the key defenses of the secret CIA base at Long Cheng, a government spokesman reported. He said heavy fighting continued tonight.

The Communists preceded the ground attack with unusually heavy shelling attacks, pumping an artillery shell every 10 minutes at Long Cheng nearby Sam Thong and Skyline Ridge which overlooks the Long Cheng base just south of the Plain of Jars.

Long Cheng is used by the Central Intelligence Agency to train Meo tribesmen in guerrilla fighting against the North Vietnamese and has long been a major Communist target. It is about 80 miles north of Vientiane.

Gen. Thongphan Knocksy, the Laotian Defense Ministry spokesman, said the shelling had made the airbase at Long Chen inaccessible except to helicopters. He said 12 government soldiers had been killed by the shelling including five at the Long Cheng airstrip.

Rock Group's Offer To Women's Jail

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Jefferson Airplane rock group has offered to donate a radio receiver and speaker system to the women's section of the San Francisco County Jail at San Bruno.

Officials Monday asked the county board of supervisors to accept the gift, valued at $400.

Drive To Revive Death Penalty

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— California's attorney general is heading a voter drive to have the death penalty reinstated. He needs 520,806 signatures to get the subject on the November ballot.

Evelle J. Ygunger, in attacking a recent State Supreme Court ruling abolishing capital punishment, said he was preparing an initiative petition for a state constitutional amendment to revive the death sentence.

"The people are entitled to a vote on this matter," said Younger, believed to be the first attorney general or constitutional officer in California to prepare a ballot initiative.

The petition, requested by Gov. Ronald Reagan, will be turned over to volunteer groups for the gathering of the necessary 520,806 signatures of registered voters.

Reagan, who supports the death penalty, has said that capital punishment was "included in the constitution and therefore the only way it can be changed is in the process set down, or changing the constitution by a vote of the people."

Younger also appeared before the state court Monday to request a rehearing and ask that it not enforce its Feb. 18 decision until an appeal can be ruled on by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The Los Angeles Republican's request could affect the fate of 107 condemned inmates in the state.

If the state court enforces its decision, the sentences of Death Row inmates will be commuted to life. Once that occurs, they cannot be executed by the state regardless of the federal court's ruling.

The lawyers who argued for a ban of the death penalty, Jerome B. Falk and Anthony Amsterdam, urged the court Monday to reject Younger's requests and to let its 6-1 ruling take effect.

Younger said his request for a stay of enforcement would prevent "the release of dangerous criminal on bail prior to trial," while he is appealing.

The court's ruling, which struck down the death penalty as "cruel or unusual punishment" prohibited by the state constitution, also removed a ban on bail to defendants awaiting trial in "capital cases"—those where the death penalty is sought. Black militant Angela Davis was freed on $102,500 bail prior to her current murder trial under terms of the decision.

Nixon Truthful Poll — 'Fair'

HARTFORD (UPI)—Most of the 500 persons queried in a recent survey rate the Nixon administration's performance in being fair and truthful with the public as "only fair."

A copyrighted poll in the Hartford Times Sunday reported that 52 per cent gave the administration the "only fair"rating. The administration was rated "good" by 24 per cent and rated "poor" by 17 per cent. Seven per cent had no opinion.

The survey was taken by the Becker Research Corp. last month before the start of the controversy involving the administration's handling of the International Telephone and Telegraph case.

When asked to rate Connecticut state officials, 26 per cent of the respondents said these officials were "good" about being fair and truthful while 54 per cent said they were "only fair." Thirteen per cent gave "poor" ratings, and 7 per cent had no opinion, the Times said.

SCHOOL'S FIRST DAY

Petaluma's new Miwok Valley School on St. Francis Drive opened yesterday with a six-classroom addition already under way. The building opened to full capacity in grades one through four with one class forced into the library. When completed next fall, the addition will expand the school to include kindergartens and fifth and sixth grades for the Old Adobe School District. Adjacent property is owned by the city of Petaluma, and is to become a neighborhood park.

A 'Total Health Protection' Plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A sweeping, compulsory health care program for 20 million Californians was proposed today by Senate Democratic leader George Mascone, who said present systems were "chaotic."

Moscone said his plan, which carries a $7.5 billion price tag, would pay for 95 per cent of the health bills of every resident of the state. He described it as "virtually total health protection."

"Health care services in Califorina are in disarray, and chaotic conditions exist everywhere," the San Francisco Democrat said.

Moscone's "Consumers Health Protection Act," to be primarily financed by workers and their employers, goes far beyond a $300 million catastrophic health insurance program recently proposed by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Under Moscone's legislation, a nine-member State Helath Commission, appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate, would be created to administer the program.

"Total participation by 20 million Californians will spread the financial risk of illness, including catastrophic illness," Moscone said. "Those who are ill or accident victims will be cared for properly — and without financial stress."

He said the program is "no radical socialized medicine proposal" and would be open to all residents of the state, including Medi-Cal recipients, indigents and employdd migrant farm workers. Employes of the federal government could participate by voluntarily paying the premiums.

"Virtually every Californian would benefit from expanded coverage, including many services often excluded, such as dental work, eye glasses, annual checkups and fully paid hospital plans," Moscone said.

The program would be financed through a graduate system of payroll withholding based on the employe's income, but paid by both employe and employer.

For example, a person earning $5,000 a year would pay 96 cents a week into the program, while his employer would contribute $2.88 a week. For the $10,000-a-year wage earner, the sum would be $2.88 a week and that of his employer $8.65 a week.

In a breakdown of the $7.5 billion cost, Moscone said the figure includes $2.9 billion currently spent for health care in the state; $1.05 billion to be paid by workers; $3.15 billion to be paid by employers and $400 million from the self-employed.

His plan would channel current government spending for health care, along with employe and employer costs into a single "Health Trust Fund." He said the fund would "provide the resources to assure fair and equitable payments to health care providers who practice with integrity."

Z'berg Introduces New Waste Policy

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An Assembly committee chairman today proposed bipartisan legislation designed to establish a state policy for managing California's increasing solid wastes production.

Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, chairman of the National Resources and Conservation Committee, said the measure would "launch a three-pronged attack on the last major pollutant threatening the quality of California life.

"With its three major programs — solid waste management, resource recovery and litter reduction and control — this legislation will fill the last significant vacuum in California's increasingly promising environmental pollution control efforts," Z'berg said.

The legislation, called the Solid Waste and Management and Resource Recovery Act of 1972, is similar to a measure by Z'berg and Sen. John Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, that was vetoed by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The Senate officially voted to override the veto, but the Assembly voted to uphold the governor's action.

"I certainly hope the governor will see fit in 1972 to support this idea whose time has come," Z'berg said. "To not do so would be a tragic abdication of his responsibility to protect California's environment from pollution."

Under the measure, local governments would retain solid waste management responsibility with the state assuming the task of developing standards.

The legislation would create a state solid waste management board and would call for research programs to develop waste recycling systems.

Z'berg said the program would initially be funded by the state general fund but that his committee "will continue to study and develop legislation to tap the potential major continuing revenue sources — such as various levies on the producers of solid wastes."

The measure is co-sponsored by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, Assembly Majority Leader Jack R. Fenton, D-Montebello, and five Assembly committee chairmen.

Wallace Won't Be On State Ballot

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Alabama Gov. George Wallace is out of luck if he wants his name listed on the California primary ballot, the state's top election official says.

Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. said Monday the deadline has passed to sign up for the California ballot-either as a Decmorat, a member of the American Independent Party AIP or any other political affiliation.

The AIP, which sponsored Wallace's 1968 presidential candidacy, has entered an unopposed and unpledged delegation in the California primary. A key party official said Wallace undoubtedly could gain that delegation's support if he wanted it.

But Wallace now is running for the Democratic presidential nomination and is regarded as the frontrunner in today's Florida primary.

Wallace said on Sunday he probably would enter California's June 6 primary, where the winner will capture 271 delegates to the Democratic national convention.

"I wouldn't put him on the ballot," Brown told a newsman. "There's no way under state law his name can appear on the ballot."

Brown noted Feb. 23 was the last day to sign up for the primary ballot. Candidates who filed their preliminary papers by then still have until March 24 to complete the qualifying process, which includes gathering 14,694 signatures.

This year for the first time a candidate can compete as a write-in contestant in the California presidential primary. He would have to declare himself a write-in eight days before the election. If he won, he could choose his delegation to the party's national convention after the primary.

But Wallace could have another problem if he tried to run as a Democratic write-in.

Democratic candidates were required to hold caucuses in each congressional district Feb. 12 to recommend convention delegates. Wallace did not do that.

State Democratic Chairman Charles T. Manatt said Monday he would "take any appropriate action, be it legal or otherwise, to prevent any candidate from entering California's primary election who did not comply with the causus procedure."

Alioto Phone Calls Monitored 'Almost Daily,' Aide Testifies

VANCOUVER, Wash. (UPI) — An assistant to San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto testified Monday that he regularly monitored telephone calls between the mayor and others.

His testimony at the $2.3 million suit against Alioto was interrupeted almost before it began when an attorney said the telephone listing might violate federal law.

JudgeStanley C. Soderland recessed the court 15 minutes early in order to have the attorney look up the applicable Federal Communications Act for the particular law in this case.

John Deluca, executive assistant to Alioto, was being questioned about a telephone conversation in December, 1969, between Alioto and Slade Gorton, attorney general of Washington state.

He said it "was almost a daily practice in our office" for him to listen to Alioto's telephone conversations and take notes on them.

William Helsell, attorney for the plaintiffs asked that the jury be sent out. He then protested that such eavesdropping was not admissible as evidence and might violate the Federal Communications Act.

Soderland said he could not rule without seeking the law or having it accurately cited to him. Helsell said he could not quote the law precisely.

Monday, Alioto's attorneys said the mayor might make a third appearance on the witness stand after Deluca had testified. The statement was made after Soderland ruled that Alioto could testify about some fee sharing customs among lawyers.

Fee sharing is a major issue in the suit.

The state of Washington and 12 publicly owned utilities are seeking in the suit to win refund of $2.3 million they paid Alioto for serving as their attorney in antitrust suits in the 1960s before he became mayor.

They claim they were not told about removal of a $1 million ceiling on the fee or that Alioto would share $800,000 of the fee with John J. O'Connell, then attorney-general of Washington state, and George K. Faler, an assistant to O'Connell. O'Connell and Faler also are defendants in the suit.

The state and utilities recovered $14.2 million in the antitrust actions.

Discount Rates Loom As Factor In Water Projects

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A flood control specialist said Monday that three-fourths of 30 flood control projects constructed in California's Central Valley could not have been built under currently-proposed standards for federal funding.

John Luther, manager of the Central Valleys Flood Control Association, said a higher "discount rate" under study by the federal Water Rescources Council might preclude construction of necessary flood control systems in the future and urged that it not be imposed until Congress can examine its effect.

Luther was one of a series of speakers at a Resources Council public hearing on proposed principals and standards for planning the country's water and land resources.

The council has drafted a study which proposes to raise the discount rate, the percentage by which future benefits of water projects are discounted, from the current 5 3-8 per cent to 7 per cent.

The council has also recommended a change in the cost-benefit ratio of federally-funded water projects to include not only monetary factors, but environmental and social factors as well.

W. Don Maughan, council director, said "if the proposals are adopted, they will have a profound effect on future federal water projects." He said such capital-intensive projects as dams and inland waterways will be less easily justified.

Luther told the hearing that the Oroville dam on the Feather River, completed in the mid-1960's, would probably not have been built under the higher discount rate.

Alvin Duskin, San Francisco dress designer and author of an initiative to limit building heights in the city, said he favored an even higher discount rate—10 per cent-to limit construction of massive water projects.

He said Californians are experiencing "a growing conviction that continued economic growth at the cost of enviornmental quality" is detrimental to their well-being.

Peter Richardson, assistant professor of environmental studies at UC Davis, said the proposal should give equal importance to environmental quality as to continued economic growth from new water projects. He also criticized the proposal for not providing mechanisms for independent review of proposed water projects.

New Bus Schedules Available

New timetables for the Golden Gate Bridge District's local Marin County bus service are available at city and county offices, district officials reported yesterday.

The new timetables show additional morning and evening service as well as weekend and holiday service aboard buses that also serve transbay routes to and from San Francisco. Buses generally run every half hour.

No time changes were made in the previous routes, district officials said.

Also new to the service is a Route 25 in San Rafael linking the stop at Fourth and Hetherton streets with the bus base at 517 Jacoby Street via East Francisco Boulevard, Canal Street and Bellam Boulevard.

The new timetables are also available at the district's bus base and at bus terminals in Mill Valley, San Anselmo, San Rafael and Novato.

Novato Investor Is Sued By Europeans

A Novato man who has formed numerous companies which sell investments abroad, has been sued in Marin Superior Court for $1.5 million by four Europeans who claim they can't get their investments back.

In a similiar suit last fall, Robert W. Pollock was ordered by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner to pay $105,774 to eight persons from Malta and France. That judgment, which was granted by default, is in appeal to a higher court.

In the more recent case, Zdenek Svejnar and Zdenek Vavra, and Anton and Ethel Wenjoski say through their attorney, Maynard Garrison of San Francisco, they are also filing the suit on behalf of other European investors.

The four claim they invested in such companies as U.S. Investment Plan Ltd. and United Growth Fund on the promise they would receive 8 or 9 per cent interest.

Instead, the suit claims, "the funds received by the defendants (Pollock and 30 John Does) were not invested in real estate or in securities listed on the recognized stock exchange but were used by the defendants to pay themselves salaries, commissions and other reimbursement, including living expenses for themselves and their families and for the printing of advertising material and other expenses to promote the additional sale of so-called investment programs.

"The funds received by the defendants were not invested in such a manner as to earn interest or produce income that would be sufficient to pay interest and all payments made by the defendants as 'interest' were in truth and fact, payments from principal received from members of the class for whom this action was filed."

According to Garrison, Vavra tried to withdraw $2,000 from U.S. Investment on Nov. 3. He received only $500.

New Federal Status Is Due Jordan

BEIRUT (UPI) — Baghdad Radio said today King Hussein will declare Jordan a federal state in a press conference he has scheduled for tomorrow.

The radio in the neighboring state of Iraq said Jordan will henceforth be named "The United Arab Kingdom" and will have a Jerusalem-based government for the Israeli-occupied West Bank and the Gaza Strip.

It said in addition there will be an overall federal government in the capital of Amman with representatives from both the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

The radio quoted the Iraqi news agency correspondent in Amman as saying Hussein will announce the restructuring of his kingdom at a news conference in Amman.

Abdul Hamid Sharaf, Jordanian ambassador to the United Nations, said in New York there was no truth to reports of an agreement between Jordan and Israel.

Sharaf said the Hussein announcement would be one of his periodic statements and may deal with some of the problems of the Arabs on the West Bank of the Jordan River.

"But it has no significance as far as the Arab-Israeli question is concerned," he said. "Reports of an alleged secret agreement between Jordan and Israel are totally unfounded."

Baghdad Radio said veteran politician Bahjat Talhouni had been nominated by Hussein as Federal Prime Minister.

According to the broadcast, the kingdom will have a new flag, which is described as "nearer to the Palestinian flag."

There was no immediate comment from Amman on the radio's broadcast. Government officials had said earlier Hussein would make "an important announcement" Wednesday at the news conference.

There was widespread speculation in Arab newspapers, mostly hostile to Hussein, that the Hussein statement would involve some sort of settlement with Israel.

Baghdad Radio said Hussein presided over a large meeting of political leaders in Amman today.

It quoted informed sources as saying serious results would emerge from the meeting which would affect the entire Arab position and the Palestinian cause in particular.

The sources said the results would "center on a political settlement between Jordan and Israel."

One Year Given In Drug Case

A Former Marin man, now serving a 10-year sentence in a federal penitentiary in connection with a huge cache of stolen arms, yesterday was given a concurrent one-year jail sentence for a Marin drug charge.

Charles Noell Hess, 29, formerly of Forest Knolls, admitted last week in Marin Municipal Court that he possessed cocaine for sale at the time of a drug arrest in Tamalpais Valley in September 1970, when agents made arrangements to buy 230 ounces of cocaine.

Hess disappeared shortly after that arrest and a bench warrant was issued for him. A few months ago he was picked up in the Santa Cruz area and later pleaded guilty to receiving a large number of machine guns, rifles and handguns stolen from the Santa Cruz Armory.

He was also given a suspended state prison sentence by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner, who sentenced him in Marin Superior Court.

REV. JOSEPH L. HUGHES
Resigned amid charges

All Faiths Minister Resigns

Rev. Joseph Leon Hughes, who is credited with reviving the Church of All Faiths in Corte Madera, resigned last night amid criminal charges against him.

Dr. Herbert R. Husen, moderator of the church's board of deacons, said the resignation was accepted, but declined to say why Reverend Hughes resigned, when it is effective or when a replacement will be named.

The minister was unavailable for comment this morning.

Hughes took over the almost defunct First Baptist Church of Corte Madera in June 1968. At the time the church had only 26 parishioners.

Under Hughes, the name was changed, the congregation became affiliated with the progressive American Baptist Convention, membership soared and an ambitious building program was begun.

However, the success story ended Jan. 28 when Hughes was arrested on suspicion of forgery and making false statements about his financial condition. Police said he forged his wife's name to borrow more than $5,000.

He has been charged with forgery and grand theft in Oakland in connection with one loan. No charge has yet been filed in Marin, but the district attorney's office said the case is still under investigation.

HUB

"Maybe we need something drastic... in order to cldan up downtown. You might need urban renewal, and that means condemnation."

With that, Dorothy Blinder jumped to her feet and declared, "I like San Anselmo the way it is. I like old buildings. If we wanted to live in Daly City, we could. That's what urban renewal gets. We have a unique character here and I think we should do everything we can to keep it."

The audience applauded Mrs. Blinder's defense of the town.

As 11 p.m. approached, moderator Leach turned the discussion to the Corte Madera Creek controversy.

No one had a good word for the concrete channel designed to run through San Anselmo.

Representing the Morningside Court area, Gordon Chan presented that group's view of the city's flooding problem.

"We have to increase the water flow, beautify the creek, take out the bends, build up the fore side and develop a plan that will prevent people from using the creek as a garbage can."

After a fruitless effort to recap the evening's discussion and formulate specific questions for a city council candidate's night, Leach adjourned the meeting.

Tomorrow night's meeting — the fourth and final session — will focus on the social problems facing San Anselmo. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the Red Hill School library.

Dead Gray Whale To Be Exploded

The dead gray whale that smelled up Stinson Beach and Seadrift over the weekend was due to be dynamited at midmorning near the Farallone Islands, Coast Guard officials reported today.

The 36-foot carcass was anchored near the islands overnight, awaiting the arrival of a boatload of Navy demolition experts. On Sunday, the Coast Guard pulled the whale off the Seadrift shoreline where it had washed up after being towed out of San Francisco Bay.

Correct Player

In the review of the concert by the Orchestra Piccola at San Domenico School which appeared in yesterday's Independent-Journal, Brian McCarthy was listed as one of the horn players when it should have been Craig Mathre, according to director Hugo Rinaldi.

Dinner Canceled

The joint dinner meeting of the Rohnert Park City Council and Cotati School District board scheduled for tomorrow has been canceled, according to city clerk Kathryn Logue. She said the meeting may be rescheduled when elections for both agencies are complete.

A Strong Quake

TOKYO (UPI)—A strong earthquake hit Hachiojima Island in the Pacific about 170 miles south of Tokyo today but caused no casualties or damage.

Found Guilty On One Count

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in reporting that Donald Gilliam, 27, of San Rafael had been found guilty by a jury in Marin Superior Court of two sales of heroin.

Actually, the jury in Judge Thomas F. Keating's court found him guilty of one sale to a drug agent last year but acquitted him on a second count.

He is to be sentenced April 1. Miss Toi Ann Weindel, 20, found guilty in connection with the same sale, is to be sentenced March 24.

Candidates Set Coffee Meetings

Novato City Council candidates Dorothy Young and Fred F. Ruegg will speak at three coffee meetings during the coming week.

Both are scheduled for coffees at 10:30 a.m. Thursday at the home of Bernice Ruegner, 236 San Felipe Way; at 10:30 a.m. Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gronberg, 2190 Vineyard Road, and at 10:30 a.m. Monday at the home of Jeannie Rideout, 530 Marin Oaks Drive.

Mrs. Young and candidate Daniel P. Donoval are to appear at a coffee at 3:30 p.m. Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Sullivan, 260 Country Club Drive.

Four Die As Train Derails

PARIS (UPI) — A turbo-powered passenger train leaving Paris for the north coast derailed today and caught fire, killing at least four persons and injuring 30 others, police said.

The train was traveling the Paris-Caen-Cherbourg line — the pride of the French National Railroad with its 10 turbine engined trains.

Railroad officials said the accident took place while the turbine-engined train was traveling toward Nantes station at 60 miles per hour.

Low Temperature

The Independent-Journal incorrectly reported yesterday that the low overnight temperature in San Rafael was 38 degrees. Actually, the low was 53 degrees.

OBITUARIES

F.E. Brown, Contractor And Banker, Dies At 79

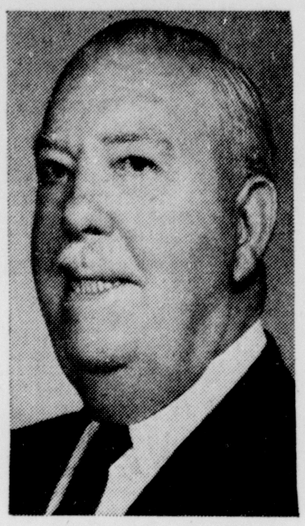
Masonic funeral for Forrest E. Brown, San Rafael contractor and banker, will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at Albert Brown Mortuary in Oakland.

Brown, 79, who maintained residences in both Oakland and Greenbrae, died Sunday in an Oakland hospital after a long illness.

He was owner and founder of Brown-Ely Co., San Rafael contractors; owner of the Hutchinson Quarry Co. of Larkspur, and Yuba Ready-Mix in Yuba City. Brown also was an organizer of the Bank of Marin, and was an original member of the bank's board of directors. He was still on the board at the time of his death.

Brown was born in Bridgewater, Mass., and came to California with his parents when he was 6. The family settled in San Rafael and later moved to the East Bay.

Brown served in the California National Guard and was a member of Gen. John J. Pershing's cavalry during the Mexican Insurrection. When he left the service, Brown went to work as an office boy with the Hutchinson Quarry, then in El Cerrito. When the firm opened its quarry in Greenbrae, Brown was put in charge, and later bought the facility.



FORREST E. BROWN
Contractor and banker

Several years ago he purchased an apartment building at 173 Lower Via Casitas, Greenbrae, dividing his time between that residence and his home in Oakland.

Brown was a member of Sequoia Lodge 349, Free and Accepted Masons; Oakland Scottish Rite Bodies of Freemasonry; Ahmes Temple Mystic Shrine; Legion of Honor; Sojourners Club; past patron of Elvesta Lodge 293, Order of the Eastern Star; Navy League of Richmond; San Rafael Shrine Club; Rotary Club of San Rafael and Associated General Contractors.

He is survived by his wife, Loraine Brown; two daughters, Betty L. Bray of Greenbrae and Phyllis V. Stiller of Lafayette; a brother, Earle W. Brown, and a sister, Dorothy Bardellini, both of Oakland; eight grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Entombment will be in Mountain View Mausoleum, Oakland. Memorial contributions to the Alameda County Cancer Society would be preferred by the family.

ITT

about Flanigan, Eagleton said:

"There is reason to believe that he is the mastermind, the possessor of the scuttling feet that are heard, faintly retreating into the distance in the wake of a White House-ordered cave-in to some giant corporation."

Flanigan was identified during the Senate hearings as a White House contact with a private economic analyst who prepared a recommendation for settlement of the antitrust case.

The recommendation was said to have been used by the administration in reaching agreement with ITT.

In the settlement, the government agreed to drop its lawsuit demanding that ITT divest itself of Hartford Fire Insurance Co. The settlement, in which ITT lost some holdings but retained Hartford, followed closely the alleged pledge of $400,000.

In statements to reporters and to Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke of California said he notified Mitchell of the ITT convention offer either in May or September.

Judiciary Committee Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., said Geneen will be called to testify later.

Another witness vital to the investigation is Richard J. Ramsden. He wrote an analysis in two days for $242 which was a key factor in the government's decision to settle the case rather than to pursue its lawsuit. The analysis predicted dire consequences to the company, the stock market, the economy and the nation's balance of payments if ITT was forced to get rid of Hartford.

It subsequently was learned that Ramsden was recruited to write the analysis by Flanigan. Tunney and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., have insisted that Flanigan also be called as a witness.

With some or all of these witnesses in the offing, it appeared the hearings would run at least another week, or possibly two.

Meantime, Kleindienst's nomination is blocked on the Senate calendar, with no chance of confirmation until the committee completes its investigation.

I-J Errs In Officials Status

Jack G. Nixon, chairman of the Marin County Planning Commission, is nearing the end of his third year on the county body.

The Independent-Journal erred March 1 when it referred to Nixon, who spoke before the San Rafael Planning Commission, as a former county commissioner.

He was appointed to the planning commission in June 1969.

Midway Spills Oil; Cleanup Under Way

ALAMEDA, Calif. (UPI)—Oil spilled during a fueling operation of the aircraft carrier USS Midway will take five to six days to clean up, the Coast Guard said Monday.

About 4,000 gallons of oil spilled into the bay at the Alameda Naval Air Station Sunday before it was contained. Del Chemical Co. is doing the cleanup operation.

MARY F. SPELLMAN
Dies at 100

MRS. SPELLMAN

Mary F. Spellman, who lived 99 of her 100 years in Marin County, died today at a local convalescent hospital following a short illness.

Mass of the Resurrection will be celebrated at 9:30 a.m. Thursday at St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael. Burial will be at Mount Olivet Cemetery. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael.

Mrs. Spellman was born May 27, 1871 in San Francisco, but came to Marin County when she was 18 months old.

She was adopted by an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bullis, and grew up on a ranch at what is now Peacock Gap. She rode a horse to school every day and graduated from the old B Street School in San Rafael.

On the occasion of her 100th birthday last year, Mrs. Spellman recalled playing hookey from school one day to watch an Indian hang at the old courthouse in San Rafael.

Mrs. Spellman, who had been active in county politics and had served on several grand juries, was a charter member of the Marin County Historical Society and had helped historians recreate a picture of Marin County during the last century. She was also a member of the Lagen Institute, Young Ladies Institute, and the Catholic Ladies Aid Society of St. Raphael's Church.

She is survived by a daughter, Hazel O'Dea of San Francisco; four grandchildren; seven great-grandchildren and four great-great grandchildren. Her husband, Frank Spellman, and a son are deceased.

RENOVATION CONTROVERSY — An unidentified workman continued phase one renovations to the 46-year-old Fairfax City Hall yesterday, prior to a 2-2 deadlock vote by the city council last night on payment of architect's fees for future work. Donald K. Olsen, Sausalito architect who made drawings for phase one, submitted a bill last night for 9.5 per cent of the proposed $23,000 second phase. The matter was continued by the council until April 10, and current work is to proceed.

Sausalito May Lose A Principal

The Sausalito School District board may retain only one of the district's two principals for the 1972-73 school year, trustee Jerry L. Whitcomb reported.

After more than four hours of discussion last night, the board voted 3-1 to reverse an earlier decision to keep all 32 certificated employees, including both principals, next year. Chairman Delta Christ dissented and trustee Warren K. Hansen was absent.

Whitcomb said the action does not mean either principal, Henry Hopkins or Armando Renzullo, will definitely be let go. He said last night's move was to give board members a chance to determine how many principals will be needed for 1972-73 (state law requires that all certificated personnel who may not be rehired be notified by March 15).

Which principal would have to go if the district reduces the number of administrators, must be decided by lottery because they were hired at the same time, August 1970. The lottery was to be held today at the district office.

Mrs. Christ told the Independent-Journal she opposed the action because "we now have two school sites and no definite plans for any changes at this time. I feel it is very necessary that we retain our educational program as it is now being presented, with two principals." She said "I think we should work for a more reasonable teacher-pupil ratio for next year."

The board also voted to hire Janet P. Cook as a substitute aide and refused transfers out of the district to two students, Ronnie and Kevin Clark of Sausalito.

The board also met in closed session to instruct its negotiator, Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg, for negotiations with employee organizations.

Hub Youth Will Face Two Counts

A 19-year-old San Anselmo youth arrested in connection with the hit-run death of a 13-year-old Sleepy Hollow girl Saturday was not booked on suspicion of glue sniffing as incorrectly reported in the Independent-Journal.

Instead, Robert Brian England will be charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, according to Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales. Bales said that a blood test taken on England after the fatal accident showed a very high alcohol level.

England, who was to appear in municipal court today for arraignment, was also to be charged with manslaughter, Bales said.

England was arrested after police found him behind the wheel of a car parked on Legend Road with major damage to the front end.

The girl killed in the 12:45 a.m. accident was Alene Toneff, daughter of former San Francisco 49er Robert A. Toneff. She and another 13-year-old girl were walking home on the shoulder of the road when the accident occurred. The other girl suffered minor injuries.

England was freed from jail after posting $1,000 bail which was set by Judge David Menary Jr. of municipal court.

Innocent Plea In Car Theft

Jerry Lee Miller, 28, of Sebastopol, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of stealing a car Jan. 10 in San Rafael. A jury trial was set for the week of April 24.

Miller and another 28-year-old Sebastopol man, Gerald David Flowers, were arrested after highway patrol officers followed their weaving car north on Highway 101 and stopped it on Civic Center Drive. Officers said the car had been stolen earlier from a San Rafael residence.

Flowers has pleaded guilty to a reduced misdemeanor charge of car theft and is to be sentenced in Municipal Court.

Correct Sponsor

The Independent Journal erred yesterday when it reported the Marin Young Men's Christian Association was cosponsoring a symposium on prisons at the College of Marin Saturday. The Young Women's Christian Association is cosponsoring the event.

Tax Deduction Plan For Auto Standards

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Sen. Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland, today proposed legislation granting a full tax deduction on the state income tax for any automobile owner who beats the 1975 deadline of federal car emission standards.

Under the bill, a person could choose the full deduction or a straight $25 tax credit if he converted his car to a fuel that meets the standards prior to 1975. The car also would be exempt from registration fees.

22 Teachers May Not Be Rehired

The Sixie School District board served notice last night on all teachers hired since the beginning of the 1970-71 school year that they may not be rehired for the coming year.

Asst. Supt. Joseph B. Goff said the preliminary notification would be sent to 15 full-time teachers and seven part-time.

The possible termination notices, required by law before tomorrow, were sent to more than 20 teachers in 1970 and none were terminated in the end, Goff said. Last year the district did not send any preliminary notices.

The high number to be notified this year, Goff said, was primarily a result of a large number of teacher currently on leave planning to return for the 1972-73 school year.

Other factors are a low nber of requests for leaves for next year and declining enrollment, he said.

Fairfax Civic Center's Second Phase Is Delayed

The Fairfax City Council last night delayed action on phase two of its civic center work at least a month with a 2-2 deadlock over architect's fees.

Sausalito architect Donald E. Olsen, according to City Mgr. Robert E. Crowe, wants 9.5 per cent of the construction cost, or about $21,850. For the money, Fairfax residents would get preliminary design studies, construction drawings and supervision of the $230,000 project.

With Councilman Lee Nelder absent, Councilmen Frank J. Egger and Frank J. O'Connell, who have opposed the project from the start, voted no, opposing Mayor Cornelis van Vliet and Councilman Robert R. Souza. O'Connell said his vote was "no reflection on Olsen" and Egger said the city was pouring "good money after bad" into the old building.

Egger added that he objected to encroachment on park land by the proposed firehouse on Park Lane, saying, "this land is far too valuable for that." He said he would support purchase of property across the street for the firehouse, leaving the park at its present size.

Further action was postponed until the council's April 10 meeting, on the eve of city elections.

The council voted March 7 to refurbish the 46-year-old city hall and eventually construct a new fire station. They also accepted a $44,131 bid of San Francisco contractor Ronald S. Collosi to remodel the existing city offices and part of the police station.

Olsen's proposed fee would cover the balance of the police department work and construction of the new firehouse, according to City Administrator Robert E. Crowe, who asked approval of the fee. Olsen drew the plans for phase one of the work.

City council candidates Adelaide P. Wilson and Randall Garrison questioned locating the new firehouse in city parkland, with an eye toward maintianing or increasing fire safety and protecting the trees.

The Fairfax City Council Also:

PAVING — Awarded $39,775 for street paving completed last December by Forde Construction Co. Forde bid $35,042, then submitted a bill for $8,638 more, citing additional paving materials used. Crowe said the city had mismeasured some streets in its specifications, and Forde had paved too thickly in places. The council voted Forde approximately half what the company wanted, $4,732. Egger voted no, citing cost overrun.

ANNEXATION — Set May 8 for the public hearing on proposed annexation of 175 acres northwest of Fairfax, between Oak Manor Drive and Glenn Avenue north of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

REZONING — Postponed to an unspecified future date prezoning of the proposed Canon Village and Tennis Club property from first residential to planned development district. The 85-acre parcel is part of the 175 acres included in the northwest annexation. O'Connor and Egger voted against adopting the prezoning, van Vliet and Souza in favor. The master plan for the proposed 128-unit development was approved Feb. 14.

PARKS — Reappointed three Parks and Recreation commissioners to four-year terms — Joseph E. Martinez, Leo Cronin and Roman Hasinski. The terms of all three expired last night.

PARKING — Referred to the city attorney a request for an ordinance prohibiting parking vehicles in areas whre they block entrances to private residences.

FUND SHARING — Unanimously asked continuation of the county's Urban Thoroughfare Agreement which provides state highway users tax funds to help develop major county roads. The county Department of Public Works has requested that the council endorse the plan for one more year, and authorize the county toubandon the plan in fiscal 1974.

PAINTING — Told Crowe to come up with plans to remove freestanding one-hour parking signs in downtown Fairfax, paint the curbing green and designate it as one-hour parking. Crowe will complete details and bring plans back at an unspecified future date.

Crowe Does Not Pursue Complaint

Fairfax City Administrator Robert E. Crowe at last night's city council meeting refused to pursue a councilman's complaint against a police officer who had accused the councilman of lying.

Patrolman James Davis said Councilman Frank J. O'Connell lied during a hearing into the dismissal of fired police chief James R. Orr.

O'Connell had testified on March 6 that he had been told by Police Officer James Davis that the officer did not wish to be a witness in the case, but that he appeared anyway. Said O'Connell, "Somebody might have gotten to him. I don't know."

Two days later, Davis denied telling O'Connell he didn't want to testify.

O'Connell subsequently asked Crowe to "talk" to Davis about the "lying" remark and last night asked Crowe if he had done so.

Crowe replied "Not as you wanted me to. This is a matter between the two of you as individuals," he said.

O'Connell objected, saying the matter was Crowe's responsibility as personnel officer of the city. Crowe denied that any employer-employee relationship is involved, insisting it was out of his jurisdiction.

Six Fairfax police officers sat in the back row of the audience at the Fairfax Women's Club, but said nothing.

Time Added In Burglary Case

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court yesterday ordered Randy Turner, 19, of San Francisco, to nine months in jail with the term to run concurrently with one he is serving at the California Youth Authority from another county.

He earlier had pleaded guilty to a charge of burglarizing a Sausalito home last May.

A codefendant, Barbara Lynn Stephens, 18, also of San Francisco, spent 30 days in jail for her part in the burglary.

They were arrested after Sausalito police found them in the home of Phillip J. Bailey on Crecienta Drive. Stereo equipment was piled by the door, police said.

Park Facility Bond Approved

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly Natural Resources and Conservation Committee has approved a proposed $250 million bond issue to purchase parks and recreational facilities.

The bill by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'Berg, D-Sacramento, was sent to the Ways and Means Committee Monday on a voice vote.

The measure is similar to one passed by the legislature last year but vetoed by Gov. Ronald Reagan. If enacted this year, it would be submitted to voters in November.

Boys Club Office Sought

A group of businessmen working to establish a Boys' Club in Central Marin is seeking a rent-free office for its fund-raising campaign.

The office would be needed for six months to a year and must be large enough for several desks and a meeting table.

The group's steering committee, which now has 37 members, met Friday. Lynes E. Downing of San Rafael, chairman of the group, announced assignments of members to four committees.

The steering committee set another meeting for this Friday at noon. Location has not been set.

Jackie Explains 'Galella Smile'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, when asked why she is almost always seen smiling in free lance photographer Ronald Galella's pictures, defined Monday a "Galella Smile" for a federal judge.

Her "Galella Smile" is a kind of reverse psychology, she told Federal Judge Irving Ben Cooper. Whenever Galella tries to "provoke me into a frightened look ... I try to smile and keep my head up and act naturally."

Mrs. Onassis, charging harassment, is suing to keep Galella from coming within 200 yards of her apartment and 100 yards of herself. Galella, who for some time has earned an estimated $40,000 a year photographing Mrs. Onassis, has filed a $1.3 million suit against her for allegedly threatening his livelihood.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

Use Of Trumps Can Clear Up Matters Of Communication

When traffic halts on a four-lane highway, it's a law of nature that the other lanes move while your lane stays glued to the road. The same law puts you in the dummy when you want to be in your hand, and vice versa. There's no way to repeat the law, but you can get around it by thinking ahead.

SMALL CLUB

West opens a small club, East plays the jack, and you win with the ace. You can afford to lead out one round of trumps with the ace, but then you should stop.

The next step is to try the heart finesse. No matter who has the king, you are pretty sure to win with dummy's ten. (If East has the king he will probably hold off the first heart trick just on general principles.)

This leaves you in the dummy, and you want to be in your own hand to try the heart finesse again. The simplest way to get to your hand is to lead a trump to the king.

You try a second heart finesse, and breathe a little easier when dummy's jack wins the trick. It does look as though the finesse has succeeded.

RETURN WITH TRUMP

Once more you must return to your hand with a trump. This draws the last missing trump and puts you in a position to take a third heart finesse. This wins, and you cash the ace of hearts in order to discard a loser from your hand. Now the contract is assured no matter which opponent has the ace of diamonds.

It would be fatal to begin the play by drawing three rounds of trumps. If you did this, you could takea heart finesse and return to your hand with the fourth trump. You would then take the second heart finesse — but would have no way to get back to your hand.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one heart, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠- 10 9 8 6
♥- A Q J 10
♦- 6 4 3
♣- 7 5.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts.

You would like to bid more when you have 100 honors in your partner's suit, but the hand is just too weak for any stronger bid. If the hand is likely to produce a game, your partner will make some invitational bid, and you will be happy to accept the invitation.

BRANCH AT HAMILTON

Referral Service Helping To Place Airmen Leaving Service

By FRANK FARRARA

The young man at a local loan company, the apprentice working on your home, or the clerk at a market could be an Air Force man working his way into a civilian job.

If so, his training would be part of the transition program at Hamilton Air Force Base, which helps men leaving the service prepare for a new job. The idea is to overcome the long standing problem of a man leaving the Air Force with a few dollars in his pocket and a smile on his face and heading straight into unemployment.

Chief M/Sgt. John Mack, inson and T/Sgt. John Mack, are working to start departing servicemen toward a job.

With "help wanted" posters on the wall, a tableful of folders and brochures containing information about jobs and a rack of pamphlets, the transition program office has the air of an employment agency.

One of the key charts on the wall indicates which firms, local or distant, are providing training through the program.

During the past three months, 162 men have been "through the office" and 51 have completed training, reported Mack.

The training can consist of working with a local business during off duty hours or taking a training program offered by firms such as Ford, Sears or General Motors.

"We have some working at the Bamboo Reef in San Rafael and we have some training in restaurant management at the Holiday Inn," said Mack, citing some examples of local job training.

Robinson expressed the hope that more local businesses would enter the program. The firm doesn't have to pay any salary but must provide training, he explained.

Under an agreement with a firm, a training schedule is laid out and "we visit to make sure they're training," said Mack. In some cases, the trainees have worked into permanent jobs upon discharge, he said.

"The idea is to help these fellows while you can," Mack said. The program is of particular benefit to young men who entered the service without a high school education or equivalent and don't have a skill that is marketable in civilian life, he added.

"The program isn't geared to everyone," Mack said. For example, security police and those in the medical field have a good shot at obtaining a civilian job and probably wouldn't be involved in the transition training.

The transition program enters the picture six months before a man is either being separated from the Air Force or retiring, when he is notified the services are available.

"We only get them after they tell the career counseling office they are getting out of the service," Robinson said.

Participation is voluntary.

Robinson said the office "also handles jobs," and some have gotten civilian jobs without going through transition training. One sergeant major was hired by a Richmond firm as an office manager, without any training period, he reported.

The program was started by the Air Force in January 1968, because many Vietnam War veterans were not able to find jobs, Mack said. "Then too," he said, "there has been strength cutting in the military."

In the office, the two sergeants have a file containing a job analysis from every state, showing the job openings and labor surpluses.

"In this way," Mack explained "a man returning to his home state can get an idea of the job market there."

There is a referral service for any person retiring, wherein his resume is sent to a data bank in Dayton, Ohio, and then matched up with available jobs fitting his qualifications.

When the qualifications and the job match up, the man and potential employer are notified, and "it's up to them from then on," Robinson said.

Coincidentally, both Robinson and Mack will be retiring soon, but they haven't entered the transition training program.

"I would like to work with people, personnel work," said Robinson, while Mack mentioned some job like working for the department of human resources.

Donation Of Boat Refused

The Mill Valley parks and recreation commission last night recommended to the city council that it not accept the donation of an 18-foot catamaran for city sailing programs because the city has inadequate facilities for storage and upkeep of the boat.

Commissioners voted 5-1 to decline the offer of Robert Griswald of San Anselmo because the harbor where the boat would be kept has been closed down by the county health department due to water pollution, and because facilities there are lacking, according to park and recreation commissioner Don I. Dimitratos.

The commissioners also voted to table the city youth commission's proposed sailing club until a more detailed plan for the club is presented.

Fire Destroys Old Cathedral

BURLINGTON, Vt. (UPI)—A fire believed to be arson today destroyed the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, a century-old structure that is the main church for the Roman Catholic Diocese of Vermont.

Timothy Austin, 22, Burlington, was arrested near the scene of the blaze. He was to be arraigned on a charge of first-degree arson this morning in Burlington District Court.

The cathedral stands directly across the street in downtown Burlington from the ruins of St. Paul's Cathedral, an Episcopal church destroyed in a suspicious fire Feb. 8, 1971.

Since that blaze, a number of suspicious fires have occurred in the downtown area, including one Monday morning that damaged the first floor of the Goethe Club.

How No-Fault Insurance Can Help

By ROBERT P. HEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON, D.C. — She sped happily down a California super highway. She had a good secretarial job, and retirement in a few years to look forward to. Suddenly a car veered abruptly into her lane.

Her car veered out of control, knocked down 10 feet of cement guard rail, and was demolished. She was in a hospital for two weeks, fully disabled for six months.

The other driver had no insurance and had been drinking, apparently heavily. Her own insurance wouldn't pay most of her expenses, and she had to get a lawyer in an effort to recover some of them from her state's uninsured-motorist fund. She faces a prolonged legal battle.

Obviously, the present auto-insurance system does not work very well, she later wrote in effect to the two prime Senate sponsors of a national "no-fault" system. How would yours have helped me, she asked Sen. Warren G. Magnuson D, of Washington, and Philip A. Hart, D, Michigan.

She wrote the senators that when she reported back to work, she was told she had been fired, thus losing her retirement and life insurance benefits. At 57, she does not expect to get the same salary and benefits in another position.

To top it all off, the State of California billed her for $1,-251.60 to repair the guard rail.

The senators replied that no-fault insurance would have paid all her medical expenses and done so promptly, without legal hassling as to whose fault the accident was. This is the core element in no-fault insurance.

It also would have paid her for loss of income (up to $1,000 a month) while she was disabled and for the difference between what she was earning in her former job and what she would earn in a new job, should that be a lower amount. It even would have paid for the guard-rail repairs.

This Magnuson-Hart bill for a national system of no-fault auto insurance is being discussed in private sessions of the Senate Commerce Committee, which has been hearing evidence about it — and about the pervasive deficiencies of the present auto insurance system. Within a month or so the Senate is expected to vote on the bill; passage is likely, although the Nixon administration opposes the bill.

The administration says each state ought to enact its own no-fault auto insurance bill. But liberal Democrats, who lead the charge for a national no-fault bill, point out that many state legislatures are dominated by lawyers, and the legal profession is leading the opposition to the bill.

Lawyers stand to lose millions of dollars in fees every year, they say, if no-fault is adopted and victims of auto accidents no longer must prove in court whose fault the accident was in order to collect.

Although many states are considering some king of no-fault insurance, the Democrats charge that most state plans would retain court suits over "fault" in many accidents — thus aren't truly no-fault — and would neither speed nor improve justice.

Everybody agrees there's terrible injustice to many innocent victims of auto accidents under the present "tort" system, under which injury payments are made by the insurance company of the person who is at fault. Often there is disagreement as to who caused the accident, and whether both parties might have contributed to causing the accident (in which case many insurance policies do not pay. In these cases, expensive and lengthy court suits often result).

Those who spearhead the congressional reform effort point out that today the auto insurance companies in the United States collect some $14 billion in insurance premiums each year. But they pay out only about $7 billion in benefits — the other $7 billion is eaten up in insurance company expenses and profits, and in fees paid lawyers in court suits.

Also, according to a Department of Transportation study, persons who sustain the greatest loss in auto accidents generally receive less money than they have lost. Those who lose more than $25,000 get less than one-third in reimbursements, on average. But persons with comparatively little loss collect more than they have lost.

Additionally, about half the people injured in auto accidents don't collect anything, as they're judged at fault. Other insurance policies don't work that way. Even though a person may have been careless, a medical insurance policy will pay medical fees, or a homeowner's policy costs of fire damage to his house.

Proponents of no-fault say that by eliminating court suits, no-fault would greatly increase efficiency of the auto insurance system, thus would help stem soaring auto insurance rates.

Opponents, led by the American Trial Lawyers Association, complain that the no-fault proposal in the Senate would not lower insurance rates, will prevent accident victims from getting as much money as they could through trial, and will not necessarily give payments promptly to victims. "A hoax and a giant fraud being perpetrated on the public," the association has charged.

Proponents of the measure say it may not be perfect but that it's far better than the present system. They're enraged at the heavy-handedness of the opposition of the Trial Lawyers Association and agree with Mrs. Virginia H. Knauer's recent critical letter to the association. The President's special assistant for consumer affairs wrote in part that "the gist of my complaint is that the opposition of your organization . . . has been so intemperate, misleading, and lacking in balance as to do serious justice to both the legal profession and the public it serves."

Although Senate prospects for passage of no-fault this year are bright, House prospects are very dim. Rep. John Moss, D, California, who chairs the consumer subcommittee of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, held hearings on the issue last year. As far back as last July he said he soon would try to have his subcommittee approve a no-fault bill.

But the measure still languishes in the Moss subcommittee, unapproved. It is not because he does not care — he strongly supports it. But his subcommittee is top-heavy with members who regularly vote against consumer measures; the subcommittee majority opposes the no-fault measure. A source close to Moss concedes that he would have had the bill approved in subcommittee by now if he had had the votes.

Two possibilities for House passage exist. One is that this is an election year, and many members of Congress are receiving pressure from voters back home to do something about the auto insurance mess. If the pressure becomes heavy enough, it is just possible the House may acquiesce.

The second possibility is compromise. There are rumblings on Capitol Hill that the Nixon administration within a few weeks will propose a compromise measure whereby Congress would set a national standard for no-fault insurance bills and give states a few years to pass bills that met these standards. Any state that did not do so within that time would find a federal no-fault statute taking effect within its borders.

All-White Angela Jury Is Accepted

SAN JOSE (UPI)—Both sides today accepted an all-white jury of eight women and four men for the murder-kidnap trial of Angela Davis.

Miss Davis said she still elt she could not receive a fair trial but was convinced the jurors would "do their best."

Addressing the court personally following a 45-minute conference in the chambers with Judge Richard E. Arnason, Miss Davis said:

"We have long contended it is impossible to receive a fair trial in Santa Clara County. We've made a number of motions for a change of venue.

"As I look at this jury I see that it does reflect the composition of this county— there are no black people on it.

"I can say that we've reached the conclusion that the men and women on this jury will do their best, and it is our opinon that a delay will not affect the composition of this jury."

She paused for a moment, and said:

"I'm happy to say that we will accept this jury."

Arnason said the prosecution had already agreed to accept the jury, and ordered selection of four alternates to proceed immediately.

The selection of the 12 jurors was completed in less than 2½ weeks—much quicker than had been predicted before Miss Davis' trial on charges of murder, kidnaping and conspiracy began.

The 28-year-old black militant, Communist and former UCLA instructor is accused of furnishing guns for the August 7, 1970, Marin County Courthouse shootings in San Rafael in which four persons were killed.

Marxist philosopher Herbert Marcuse, one of Miss Davis' old professors, was in the spectator section when the jury was accepted.

He had dinner with Miss Davis Monday night and told newsmen she was "in good spirits and as sweet as ever."

Miss Davis first met Marcuse at Brandeis University in 1964 and later worked on her philosophy thesis under his direction at the University of California at San Diego.

It was revealed today that Judge Arnason gave each side an additional peremptory challenge last week to solve a dispute over an unsuccessful defense challenge of a juror.

The defense tried twice to have Arnason remove prospective juror William E. Hotaling on grounds he was so strongly anti-Communist he could not give Miss Davis a fair hearing.

Although Arnason refused, the transcript of the in chambers conference revealed he granted each side one more peremptory challenge, for a total of 21 each.

As today's session opened, the defense had used two and the state four.

The defense wound up dismissing Hotaling by peremptory challenge Monday, along with another juror who had expressed anti-Communist views. The prosecution excused a college student and the panel's only black, a middleaged housewife.

An employe of IBM, Luis Franco, was selected as a replacement and became the first Mexican-American tentatively seated. Other replacements included a medical research assistant, an electrician and a divorced mother with three children.

Monday's session ended with a tentative panel of eight women, four men.

A postman, Clifford R. Defayette of Sunnyvale, was selected as a replacement and then excused after he said that patrons on his mail route were both for and against Miss Davis, a former UCLA philosophy instructor and avowed Communist.

He said his customers told him "not to come back" if he was selected for the jury and voted the wrong verdict.

"I think they mean it," the letter carrier said. "They say, don't come back if you vote the wrong way—I'll pick up my own mail."

Judge Arnason dismissed the postman and another name was drawn.

The prosecution, which removed two panelists last week, Monday excused Mrs. Janie Hemphill, the only black, and Philip J. Russell, a student at San Jose State College.

Gerrymander Amendment Introduced

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, has introduced a proposed constitutional amendment aimed at preventing the creation of gerrymandered legislative districts which are shaped like "praying mantises."

Knox said Monday his measure was intended to put an end to "the political agony and public ridicule" he said were a result from reapportionment attempts.

The legislation would require districts to be as geographically small as possible and drawn to include as much adjacent territory as is feasible.

Other provisions include:

—Towns of more than 20,000 population would not be put in separate districts except under special conditions.

—Districts would be drawn to insure their social geographic integrity.

—The state Reapportionment Commission, which has been declared unconstitutional, would be abolished.

Tax Shift Bill In The Hopper

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A $1.5 billion tax shift program by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti has been introduced in the legislature and assigned the same bill number as two previously unsuccessful tax programs sponsored by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Moretti's proposal, introduced Monday, was given the bill designations "AB 1000." The plan is supported by the County Supervisors Association of California.

Reagan's program last year was in two parts, AB 1000 and AB 1001. It was defeated in the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee.

In 1970, the governor's tax bills also were designated AB 1000 and AB 1001 and became familiar to millions of Californians when they died for lack of a single vote in the Senate.

A 'Robin Hood' Role By Panthers

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Black Panthers distributed stolen milk to slum dwellers today in what they called the first in a series of weekly "Robin Hood"style operations designed to underscore the plight of the needy in the country.

A spokesman for the group said its members removed milk bottles lined up for distribution to homes in Jerusalem's fashionable Rehavia neighborhood, and later left them at door steps of homes in a slum area in the outskirts of the city.

The panthers posted leaflets in Rehavia saying, "Thank you for the milk, which is being given to underprivileged children, instead of dogs and cats in your own homes.

Dixie Musician Hayes Is Dead

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Private funeral services will be held for Clancy Hayes, famed banjoman and singer with such traditional jazz groups as Turk Murphy's and Bob Scobey's.

Hayes died at 63 Sunday after a lengthy battle with cancer.

Hayes, born in tiny Caney, Kansas, left high school and sang with midwest tent shows before migrating to California.

He was one of the best known figures of the traditional revival of the 1940s and 1950s. He starred on Bay Area television and his novelty song "A-Hugging' and A-Chalkin" was a national hit.

Healthy Competition In Marin's Primary

There'll be no lack of competition for the three seats on the Marin County Board of Supervisors which the electorate is to fill this year. And William T. Bagley faces a contest within his own party for his Seventh District Assembly seat.

With the close of candidates' filings, it appears highly likely that November runoffs will be necessary in both the Second and Fourth Supervisorial Districts. The Third District decision will be made in the June 6 primary, since there are only two candidates.

It was not unexpected that a large field entered in the Fourth District, where incumbent Louis H. Baar is not seeking reelection. Absence of an incumbent from the race always stirs the hopes of more aspirants.

THE FACT THAT two candidates are challenging Peter R. Arrigoni in the Second District indicates that healthy differences of opinion exist there. Although aspirants Barbara Boxer and Dr. William J. Filante represent different parts of the political spectrum, early campaign statements of both indicate they will have much to say about loose spending and what they see as loose administration in county government. Neither, incidentally, appears as a friend of County Administrator John Barrows, in whose appointment Arrigoni played an important role.

There is an unusual situation in the Fourth District.

Insurance man James Dougan appeared to be the probable candidate of the Marin Property Owners Association, but several leaders of that so-called "developer-oriented" group are backing Michael Peevey, a California State Federation of Labor employee and former Democratic candidate for state Senate. Woodacre lawyer Gary T. Giacomini has family ties to the property owners group, but his backing is from other segments. A fourth candidate is Patricia Maginnis, who is out for the Women's Lib vote.

Incumbent Michael Wornum faces a challenger whom he defeated four years ago in Rev. Samuel L. Banks Jr., longtime Marin City leader. How well Banks does in the primary will indicate how much dissatisfaction with Wornum's performance exists in Southern Marin.

ASSEMBLYMAN BAGLEY, long in disrepute with Marin Republicanism's right wing, faces two challengers from that wing: Edward J. Gilmore and Robert D. Weinmann. It appears likely that by splitting the conservative Republican vote, they will give Bagley an easy renomination.

On the Democratic side in the Assembly race, Novato's Harry J. Moore should have little trouble defeating Joseph J. Franaszek, a Tiburon 18-year-old who apparently believes that old enough to vote is old enough to govern.

Between now and June 6, there will be a lot of charges and counter-charges, a lot of smoke screens and red herrings. It will behoove all voters to concentrate on what they consider the issues — not what some candidate or campaign publicist wants to pretend are the issues.

Finance Director Finds University's Achilles Heel

By EARL G. WATERS

State Finance Director Verne Orr has courageously put his finger on the Achilles' heel of the University of California. He has questioned the infrequency of appearance in classrooms of the professors and the multitude of little classes.

It is to be expected the reaction will be anguished wails and vicious charges that he is attempting to destroy a great institution of learning. The university has an army of professors, a huge student body, and a vast and powerful corps of alumni.

FORTUNATELY FOR ORR, he possesses sufficient qualifications to be a critic. He graduated from Pomona, holds a master's from Stanford, and has served as a trustee of Scripps College. His experience gives him an understanding of college operations.

Then, too, as the man responsible for putting the state's budget together, he is harassed by fiscal problems and well aware of the taxpayers' growing resistance to funding education.

He knows the resistance is an expression of resentment of the educators' failure to fully utilize the dollars that are provided.

And there are many who have been wondering how U.C. can be a great center of learning when there are no professors in the classrooms. This is exactly Orr's point. He has discovered that there are no workload standards for the university. Many professors spend no more than three hours a week in actual teaching. Some don't spend that much. In fact, some go an entire quarter or an entire year without a class.

THE STATE COLLEGES have adopted a workload standard of 12 units. The number of hours in class at the colleges range from 12 to 36 a week, depending upon the type of course taught. Understandably, lesson preparation for some courses requires more time than for others. Languages and mathematics, for example, are stable and do not require the preparation time of some more challenging subjects.

University professors supposedly spend from nine to 27 hours a week in classroom teaching. But the standard is not being adhered to. The professors become involved in research.

It is said that research is one of the things which makes the difference between a great university and a college. U.C. abounds with research projects. But it is also a super-endowed school. Over the years it has become one of the most heavily endowed universities in the country, ranking behind Harvard, Yale and Texas in total endowments. Additionally it receives millions in research grants from the federal government and private foundations.

WHAT WOULD SEEM a simple solution to the problem Orr raises is to have the research projects pay the university for the time spent away from classrooms by the professors.

Discrimination Seen In Hilarita Stand

I read George Nevin's "Reporter's Notebook" in the I-J on Mr. Littman's stand on Hilarita. I also read his answer in letters to the editor.

I have been following the Hilarita rebuilding closely. Having been a resident for the past 15 years. I am also a native-born Tiburonian (1906).

He and his cohorts have been nit picking for years. Density was only one straw in the whole stack of opposition hay.

I believe they are all frustrated. Some real estate salesman sold them a bill of good on the premise that the present buildings would be razed within a year's period of their purchase. It so happens they're still here.

What they actually want is single-family homes, one-half acre lot size, in the price range of their own residences.

They do not want working people. We have three markets in Tiburon. To my knowledge not one of the employees lives here. Why? It is made too costly without moderate-income housing.

It is almost inconceivable that today we have such discrimination between the haves and have-nots or haves-a-little.

Strange That Ferries Can't Haul Bicycles

Bicycles are becoming the most popular recreational vehicles in the United States. Ferries are reviving on San Francisco Bay. Mr. Albert Elledge, president of Harbor Tours, offers eloquent comment on the subject of ferries in the Marin Magazine of Jan. 8.

Bicycles are carried to Angel Island by the one boat system running there from Tiburon. Bicycles are carried between San Francisco and Sausalito on the M.V. Golden Gate. But when the bicyclist calls Harbor Carriers asking if they will carry his bicycle to Angel Island on their numerous runs he is told they "have no facilities."

When two single boat operators can haul bicycles it seems strange that one with a half dozen ferries or more cannot haul bicycles to Angel Island, one of the great cycling areas of the North Bay.

Tribute To O'Connor By One Who Knows

To most people of this generation the passing of Mr. Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation-March of Dimes is just another statistic, but to the thousands of old-time volunteers of the March of Dimes it means the loss of a dear friend and a great man. He was the president of the organization from its inception in 1938.

The words polio, iron lung, chest respirator and Salk vaccine mean practically nothing to the young of today, but they meant a great deal to this man whose own daughter and his best friend Franklin Delano Roosevelt were stricken with the dread disease of polio and to us who lived with it through those dread years. The story is too long for a letter but is written in many books.

The jist of this letter is the fact that without Mr. O'Connor's fighting spirit and tenacity Dr. Jonas Salk would have been hard pressed to perfect the vaccine that licked polio. They fought against terrific forces of scientists and laymen who said "it can't be done, a killed virus won't work," but with Mr. O'Connor's faith and March of Dimes funds Dr. Salk made it work. Several years later the live virus originated by Dr. Sabin came into being (through our funding) and now with this vaccine on a sugar cube we have no more fear that with the advent of summer the black cloud of polio will be hovering over head.

After polio was knocked out Mr. O'Connor was critized by many because he lead tme decision to stay in business and fight birth defects (this after much study). Well, we all know how that has turned out. Today we have done more in the field of research and treatment than was ever dreamed of. We have a network of more than 100 birth defect centers across this nation today to help youngsters with birth defects.

So I end this eulogy, if you will, by saying it was a great privilege to have known this great man and worked with him and his "causes" for 25 years. He will be sorely missed by us all.

The Anyburg Umpteen Technique 'Indianapolis 500 Are Innocent'

(Reprinted from Wall Street Journal)

The story, as we heard it, is that when the student radical was asked what he thought of the Indianapolis 500, he immediately replied, "They're innocent, every one."

At this moment a federal court in Pennsylvania is listening to evidence in the conspiracy trial of the Harrisburg Eight. And in San Jose, Calif., Angela Davis is on trial on charges of murder, kidnapping and conspiracy growing out of an incident that is supposedly tied in with the Soledad Three. These are not to be confused with the earlier Chicago Eight, the Fort Hood 43, the Fort Jackson Eight, or the Presidio 27, all of whom also enjoyed the Instant Martyrdom the numbers game is intended to bestow.

THIS NUMBERS GAME is nothing new. In his excellent book "Shame and Glory of the Intellectuals," poet-critic Peter Viereck described it as the Anyburg Umpteen technique, saying that the left always made "ominous references to the Hollywood Ten, the Trenton Six, the Martinsville Seven . . . Every last Oshkosh Eight becomes the greatest crime since the Crucifixion." His suggestion for testing the civil liberties commitment of those who play this game — his book was published 19 years ago — was to ask how they feel about Russia and the oppression of the Muscovite Two Hundred Million.

The Anyburg Umpteen technique, of course, says nothing at all about the guilt or innocence of those christened by it. So many of the present trials are based on conspiracy charges, and we share the misgivings about the vagueness of these laws. Still, we question whether turning a trial into a cause is often a net advance for justice.

IT'S IMPORTANT not to lose sight of the real record of how the judicial system has been working. Only a short time ago the president of Yale University publicly doubted that a black revolutionary could get a fair trial in the United States. In fact, the black revolutionaries we have heard about have mostly gone free one way or another. And even when the juries have reasonably concluded that the government's evidence was not enough to sustain a conviction, we have yet to see a case where the evidence wasn't enough to give reason for holding the trial.

So it seems to us the judicial system is, if anything, leaning over backward to protect the rights of radicals. Certainly it's not subjecting them to repression, which is typically the underlying implication of the numbers game. We do not think that justice is best served by emotion-charged causes. Both history and recent events suggest instead that protecting justice is a job best left to the courts themselves.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Big Spender Blasts Silence On Candidates' Campaign Funds

WASHINGTON — The rich, ripe hypocrisy spread around about campaign contributions is enough to cover at least the eastern seaboard with a layer an inch thick. One of the most zealous crusaders in this department is Stewart Mott, who is spending large chunks of his inherited General Motors fortune to knock down Sen. Edmund Muskie.

Because George McGovern and John Lindsay disclosed the source of their money and Muskie did not, the senator was a double-dyed villain, not to say a hypocrite, in the Mott book. Finally, Muskie promised to reveal his finances — after today's Florida primary.

Mott's huge income — $850,000 annually from trust funds alone — gives him a leverage denied to the ordinary citizen. This is an interesting example of money splurging in politics on the left of center contrary to the traditional big spenders on the right. In 1968 Mott gave Eugene McCarthy $210,000 for his presidential campaign. Reports persist, which his aides will neither confirm nor deny, that he means to be open-handed with Clean Gene again this year.

THUS FAR in his anti-Muskie crusade Mott has spent $32,000 for newspaper ads alone. Four days before the Florida primary he put ads in the 25 Florida newspapers with circulation above 10,000. He rated Simon-pure the candidates who had or were about to disclose the sources of their money. In a kind of purgatory he put the "silent candidates" who were keeping mum. A third category was the "cynically corrupt candidate, namely Richard Nixon."

But, worst of all in the Mott deceitful candidate sweepstakes is Muskie. He quotes the "authoritative Wall Street Journal" as saying that Muskie is getting dough from Republican defense contractors. It is a vitriolic attack on the Democrat who was the front-runner until he was somewhat lamed by the outcome of the New Hampshire primary.

THE MOTT STORY is a classic instance of how to be very, very rich while happily watching the stock options and the stock dividends accumulate. Mott's father is 96-year-old Charles R. Mott. In 1913 he sold the Weston-Mott Co., which included the Flint Wagon Wheel Co., to General Motors for a reported $11 million in General Motors stock. He promptly became a member of GM's board of directors, where he has served ever since.

Leading a spartan life where a nickel was a nickel in Flint, Mich., his accretions made him the largest GM shareholder in the world. He has passed along such huge blocks to his son, his two daughters and his foundation that does good works for the school system in Flint that this may be no longer true. The last report — only directors have their stock holdings publicized — showed the elder Mott with 85,187 GM shares. The runner-up was a former board chairman, Albert Bradley, with 79,482.

In the presidential campaign thus far young Mott —he is 35 —has been even-handed with his largesse. He gave $5,000 each to McGovern, McCarthy, Lindsay and $2,000 to Shirley Chisholm. In addition, he loaned the McGovern campaign $40,000, which has been repaid.

THE FORECAST for Florida is Muskie in third place after Hubert Humphrey, with George Wallace first with perhaps 35 per cent of the vote. With the splintering of the vote among the marginal candidates, Wallace could be a principal beneficiary of Mott's Committee for Honesty in Politics.

Mott is a patron — a contribution of $1,000 and a repayable loan to the magazine, New Democrat. With the backing of many Kennedyites out of the past, the magazine plumps hard for McGovern and scorns the concept of a centrist candidate, with Democratic National Chairman Lawrence O'Brien as a special figure of fun.

If money continues to count in politics, Mott will be around for a long time. In 1977, when he is 40, he will come into an additional income of $4 million a year from a third trust, which is also almost entirely in GM stock. By that time McGovern may be president and, if he should put over one of his campaign proposals, inheritance of an individual would be limited to $500,000, with anything over that taxed 100 per cent. This could put a slight crimp in the Committee for Honesty in Politics.

Pointless State Votes Show Need For National Primary

Americans, it seems to me, are going to grow very weary of state presidential primaries before this spring and early summer are over. Of course, they won't be nearly as weary as the unfortuate candidates are likely to be. Nor so broke.

If the other state results are as inconclusive as New Hampshire, we are likely to come up to the Miami convention with no really firm indications. Thus the way will be open for a nomination controlled by the power brokers, the boys in the smoke-filled rooms. It has been suggested that perhaps they know the candidates better than the voters in the White Mountains or the Everglades, and so the decision should be left to them. That isn't the way we work. We still believe in voting, and democracy.

Therefore attention has turned again to the idea of a nationwide, state-by-state, simultaneous presidential primary. Candidates would have to file to get on the ballot. Voters would cast their ballots in either the Republican or Democratic primary. If it were desired to retain the institution of a national convention, then they would vote for a slate of delegates. Winner would not take all, state by state, as in the election, but would receive a number of votes or delegates proportionate to the total who voted for him.

LIKE OTHER REFORMS, this is no panacea. It is asked, for example, if it is cruel and unusual punishment for candidates to run in 24 state primaries, why would it be all that much better to run in 50? But they wouldn't be doing that. They would be running in one single primary, in all the states on the same day. Nobody could possibly campaign in all 50 states, so candidates would have to concentrate their fire on the most important places, and do a lot of campaigning electronically.

Perhaps that would send the costs up, perhaps not.

Quite possibly, a national nominating primary would not produce a candidate with over 50 per cent of the vote. It would often be split among a number of minority candidates. That suggests the necessity of following the primary with an actual nominating convention. There the values of a national party town meeting would continue to exist. There a consensus could be shaped, but on the basis of delegates, all of whom had been chosen by voting methods, rather than caucuses or state conventions and hence with enhanced legitimacy.

If a candidate had received a clear majority in the nationwide state-by-state primary, the nominating convention would be redundant except to focus the party's ideas and spirit.

THE PROCESS IN 1972 is beginning discouragingly. Democratic candidates have expended fantastic amounts of energy and money. They are emphasizing the party's disunity. They are draining its potential resources for the ensuing campaign. The "reforms" introduced in the Democratic Party's procedures are raising large questions of representativeness and balance. The media are having a field day, but I suspect they are exhausting the public's patience and interest.

The hand-shaking type of campaign is as anachronistic as the horse and buggy. It gains a few votes, as Sen. George McGovern proved in New Hampshire, but it says little to the nation and to the large decisive pools of votes.

What will come of it all? After New Hampshire, Senator McGovern is more credible as a candidate but most unlikely to win the nomination. After Florida, Gov. George Wallace may prove himself to be some sort of power within the Democratic Party. But what kind of power? How will that power be exerted at the convention? What does Governor Wallace want, when it becomes clear that he cannot be the nominee?

The process of nominating presidential candidates, the process of electing them through the electoral college, stand revealed as highly imperfect. The American people and their political experts must do something about it.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

March 14, 1962

Marin County Clerk George S. Jones fell dead of a heart attack on the sidewalk at B and Julia Streets.

Richard M. Nixon opened his Marin campaign for the Republican nomination for governor of California with a speech in which he called for pay-as-you-go financing with a balanced state budget.

20 YEARS AGO

March 14, 1952

Over three inches of snow fell on Mount Tamalpais as a spring storm forced shutdown of the San Rafael-Richmond ferry and caused numerous power blackouts.

G. S. Maloney, supervising inspector of the state Bureau of Narcotics Enforcement, was quoted as saying the narcotics picture in Marin "is certainly clean."

How To Stymie Women's Lib By Keeping Secretary Happy

WASHINGTON — Women's Lib organizations have moved out of the home and are now attacking the male chauvinists where it hurts — in the nation's offices. They finally have realized something that men have known all along — the power in this country lies with the American secretary. And while very few wives are willing to go to the barricades, there are millions of secretaries who are ready to take up arms to fight for the revolution.

I am one of the few male chauvinist bosses who takes Women's Lib's attempt to organize secretaries seriously. I know that my sweet-smiling, Junoesque secretary, Margi, who sits in my outer office, would really like to be a colonel in a heavy artillery women's brigade leading an attack on the National Association of Manufacturers.

But I wisely have prevented her from finding any excuse to feel oppressed or exploited. This is how I keep Margi happy:

IN THE MORNING I always get to the office at 9 o'clock sharp to open the mail so it will be ready for her when she comes in around 9:30.

I naturally wait for her to finish her coffee and talk to the other secretaries on the floor before asking her if she would be interested in taking any dictation or answering any calls.

By 11 o'clock she's in her happiest mood, and we usually get our best work done. Occasionally, when she has to leave the office, I take her calls for her. If I feel it's important, I'll write down the name of the person who called and his telephone number.

But some are crank calls from department stores asking about bills that I don't want to bother her with, so I just listen to the person's story and try to get him off the phone as quickly as possible.

When Margi comes back, I ask her which person she wants me to call first for her.

THE MOST IMPORTANT thing I've discovered as a boss is not to burden my secretary with too many details. I might tell her about my appointments, just in case she wants to remind me later about them. (This, of course, is strictly voluntary, and she has no obligation to do it if she is busy reading Women's Wear Daily.) And I try not to bother her with IBM or Xerox salesmen who constantly are coming into our office to sell their wares. I believe Margi's time is too valuable to talk to these people. While I have been accused of being brusque with strangers who come into the office selling postage meter machines and insurance, I would rather have them think badly of me than of Margi.

One of the main criticisms that secretaries voice about their work is that there is no chance for advancement. This is not the case in my office. I keep encouraging Margi to become a humor columnist. I have told her any time she wants to take over the column it's hers. This has made her feel that there is some future here, and while she hasn't done any humor columns yet, she is secure in the knowledge that if she wanted to, she could go as far as any man in the business.

Many secretaries complain that bosses are more interested in their looks than they are in their work. The reverse is also true, and many secretaries prefer to work for a man who is good looking rather than efficient.

We don't have this problem in our office because although I am good-looking, I'm serious about my work, and Margi considers me more than just a sex object.

It is for these reasons Margi has rejected all approaches from the Women's Lib movement. While she is sympathetic with their goals, she knows that Women's Lib couldn't give her any more than she has now. It's no wonder that most militant women resent somebody like me. By treating my secretary as I do I've pulled their raison d'etre right from under their feet.

Sausalito Poetry Reading Friday

Four Marin poets —Douglas Gomke, Pagan Neil, Milton Weiner and P. E. Williams — will read their works at 8 p.m. Friday in Campbell Hall at Sausalito's Christ Episcopal Church.

A husband-wife poetry writing team, Beau and Laura Beausoliel of San Francisco, also will participate.

Proceeds from the event, the first of a series of readings, will be used for publishing Marin poetry.

Petaluma's Growth Headaches Moving Toward Rohnert Park

In Sonoma County, Petaluma has been getting all the headlines about growth and how to control it, but it appears Rohnert Park may be making news in that category soon.

East Petaluma and its problems of crowded schools, inadequate parks and lack of open space has been held up countywide as an example of uncontrolled growth. Now that the city has plans to enact legislation to limit the growth rate, many believe developers will head north to Rohnert Park and perhaps take some of East Petaluma's problems with them.

NO ONE CAN SAY that Rohnert Park has not been warned. Growth problems are clearly evident in Petaluma. Already developers who have limited their major work to Petaluma in the past have purchased land in Rohnert Park and have subdivision plans drawn.

Elementary schools in Cotati and Rohnert Park are already on tight budgets. The Cotati School District — with its very limited tax base — has had financial problems for years. While none of the schools there can be considered crowded, one wonders how the district can cope financially with a great influx of students from the new subdivisions that will surely spring up. In East Petaluma's Old Adobe School District, the only solution was constant double sessions.

In the past, Rohnert Park officials have been considered more dilligent than those in Petaluma in requiring developers to provide park sites free or at low cost and school sites as well. Many believe Petaluma spoiled its developers and hope Rohnert Park won't make the same mistake. The main concession so far has been reducing lot sizes to 6,000 square feet for developer Arthur Condiotti.

ROHNERT PARK is different in many ways. Since it's only 10 years old, the city has no "old guard" with which to contend. Still some think its lacking in character and an identity all its own.

Rohnert Park is probably as homogeneous a town as can be found in California. Homes vary only a few thousand dollars in value and only a few years in age. Most residents probably fall into the same general income group. While some cities of nearly 7,000 in population can boast a wide social range of residents, very few people in Rohnert Park could be considered very wealthy or poverty striken.

While some people find great security in the homogeneity, others find it dreadfully dull and yearn for greater variety.

Perhaps that will come with the growth spurt that appears to be just around the corner.

Youth 'Welfare Bill' Before Reagan

SCRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan's bill to block the automatic elimination of 29,000 young adults from welfare reached his desk today amid charges he created the "emergency" in the first place.

Without the bill, 18-, 19-and 20-year-olds receiving benefits under Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) are to begin being purged from the welfare rolls Wednesday.

The "urgency" bill, which takes effect immediately upon Reagan's signature, was voted final legislative approval by the Senate 30-3 Monday after a floor debate in which Democrats assailed the governor.

"The emergency itself was created entirely by this administration," contended Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, nominal author of the state's new welfare reform act.

Reagan's bill, actually a carbon copy of one provision of the welfare reform law, will retain on AFDC 18, 19 and 20-year-old "young adults" who attend school regularly, make passing grades and progress.

Most of the 29,000 are students but it is not known by state Social Welfare Director Robert B. Carleson how many will continue to qualify for aid because of their academic status and how many will be cut.

The governor insists the new 'age of majority" law, which reduced the legal age of adulthood from 21 to 18, had the effect of removing all 18-20 year-olds from AFDC because they were actually adults.

State officials estimated earlier that if they were bumped off welfare, the taxpayers would save about $30 million.

Carleson issued regulations instructing county welfare departments to begin issuing notices of aid termination to young adults effective Wednesday, but later ordered them to hold up pending passage of the governor's bill.

A lawsuit challenging the constitutionality of the regulation was filed Feb. 28 by the California Welfare Rights Organization. Three days later Reagan asked for "emergency" legislation to keep academically qualified students on AFDC.

"The administration could have and should have withdrawn these improper and probably illegal regulations," Beilenson said. "It puts both the legislature and the governor in a very embarrassing situation."

He said the need now for the bill was the "precipitous and I believe unwarranted action of Carleson. He had every discretion to hold up for two or three more weeks. He didn't have to issue those regulations and cause this crisis."

Carleson later insisted that he had "no choice" under the "age of majority" law and an order of a federal court but to issue the rules.

He said he now will draft new regulations defining for AFDC eligibility purposes what constitutes regular attendance at school, academic progress and passing grades.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, legislative sponsor of the governor's bill, told the Senate Finance Committee earlier that the administration "did not have to issue regulations or send notices out, but they did."

"They sincerely believe the 18-year-old law applied to welfare," he said. "Either that, or they are perverse in the application of the law. There is no middle ground."

On the Senate floor, Sen. Clark Bradley, R-San Jose, said 18-year-old students on AFDC appear to want it both ways—to be given the privileges of adulthood and to be considered minors for purposes of welfare.

"Either these students are minors and eligible for the program or they are adults and not eligible," he said.

Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, Senate floor manager of the bill, warned unless the measure was passed the 29,000 would be dropped from AFDC and become eligible for local county relief. He estimated that cost at $30 million.

The only three "no" votes were cast by Republican Sens. Bradley and James Whetmore of La Habra and Sen. Stephen P. Teale, D-Rail Road Flat.

In a related action, the Senate also approved 26-0 and sent to Reagan a bill by Sen. Fred Marler Jr., R-Redding, aimed at averting the threatened loss of about $34 million in revenue to the state's public junior colleges.

Marler explained that the "age of majority" law also had the effect of rewriting the definition of adult for purposes of community college financing so that they no longer would be qualified for certain kinds of funds.

Tradition held that a girl who wasn't kissed under the mistletoe would not marry in the coming year.

Arms Are Linked To Summitry

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Secretary of State William P. Rogers said today the success of President Nixon's trips to Peking and Moscow would depend to an important extent on high U.S. expenditures for arms and international security.

Rogers, in testimony before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said the administration was requesting $2.15 billion in new authority for security — such as $780 million for military grant assistance, $527 million for foreign military sales, credits and guarantees, and $844 million for supporting assistance.

"We are grateful for your approval of our fiscal 1972 request for security assistance," Rogers told the committee. "We regret that the final action of the Congress as a whole fell far short of what we need to carry out the President's objective, and we are urgently considering the consequences of this fact."

Rogers detailed a list of needs for security assistance he said were vital to the credibility of the Nixon Doctrine of reducing U.S. military presence abroad while maintaining America's commitments.

"The President's visit to China accentuates our conviction that an improved bilateral relationship will serve peace in the Pacific," Rogers said. "And his forthcoming trip to Moscow will emphasize our desire further to improve our relations with the Soviet Union.

Big Animal Ordinance On Agenda

The proposed large animal ordinance which has been argued back and forth since last summer again will be on the agenda of the San Anselmo City Council today at 8 p.m. in the city hall.

On Feb. 28, the city planning commission balked at a council suggestion that it order City Atty. John G. Buresch to revise a supposedly "unconstitutional" section of the ordinance. The commissioners, in effect, told the council it should issue the orders to the attorney.

The proposed law would limit the keeping of horses, goats and other large animals in the city, impose an annual license fee on each animal and require inspections.

Critics have attacked wording in tha ordinance which would give the director of public works discretion in deciding whether adequate — but unspecified — standards were being met for the keeping of the animals.

The council's agenda also will include a report on the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council's current fiscal and administrative problems, a discussion of price signs for gasoline service stations and discussion of a proposed agency for implementing the countywide preliminary plan.

Recovery Announced Of A $2.4 Million Titian

BOLOGNA, Italy (UPI)— Police announced the recovery today of two paintings, one by 16th Century master Titian, valued at $2.4 million and stolen earlier this month from a church in the Adriatic port city of Ancona.

Two persons were arrested, police said, one of them a Swiss woman.

The paintings were identified as a crucifixion by Tiziano Vecellio, know as Titian, and an annunciation by Giovanni Guercino. They were stolen March 2 from the Church of St. Dominivo in Ancona.

Police announced Monday in Genoa that they recovered 45 stolen paintings valued at $516,000 but none of them was by any artist as well known as Titian.

Bologna police said they were holding Mrs. Katia Riboni, 27, a resident in Lugano-Castagneto, Switzerland, and an Italian identified as Bruno Sala, who was arrested in the Adriatic resort of Rimini.

Authorities gave no details of their alleged role in the theft of the paintings.

It was the second recovery of a stolen Titian since last September, when police in Venice found 14 Renaissance works in two cars. Ten persons were arrested in that operation.

She Helps The Blind To See A Little Of Early America

By ALICIA STEPHENS
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. — To touch, to hear, to smell to "see."

To trace the outline of a handmade rifle and imagine a pioneer father hunting meat for winter. . .to explore with hands a tin candle mold and envision a cold, 18th Century bedroom filled with flickering light. . .to smell spice cookies baking and visualize a huge, open brick oven filled with crusty brown loaves of bread.

This is the concept that inspried a young college student to devise an audio-tactile tour for the blind and partially sighted.

MARY SALEM is a senior at Salem College in Winston-Salem, N.C. She developed a special tour of the restored village of Old Salem, a town founded in 1766, to bring to the blind a vivid, accurate image of life in early America.

The tools of living that are housed in the colonial handmade brick and half-timbered buildings here present a microcosm of a way of life long past. Thousands of people tour the village annually, but always before the tours were geared for people who could see; any handling of the artifacts was frowned upon.

Development of the tactile tour was an ideal undertaking for Mary. She was made acutely aware of the problems surrounding the blind when she was 12 and her brother, Rick, began to lose his eyesight. (Now a third year student at Duke University, Rick was able to contribute practical suggestions for the tour.)

Mary also has worked with the state commission for the blind and has helped a seventh-grade girl surmount blindness.

So the interest, on Mary's part, was there. But added to interest she needed time. That's where Salem College came in. The school, which has been part of historic Salem since 1772 and so has reason to be interested in the village, wants to graduate students who are able to relate theory with reality, education with living. To this end it instituted a month of independent study, in which students explore in depth subjects of particular interest to themselves.

IT'S NO accident that many of those subjects, including Mary's, were also of benefit to the community that houses the school.

Mary's modus operandi was direct. First she got approval from the college for her project, then clearance from Old Salem, Inc., which manages the restored village.

Her plan was to use the other four physical senses to bring the most authentic and colorful images possible to her tourists.

The tour was structured for children, rather than adults, because, as Mary puts it, "Children are less inhibited." But she does foresee extending it to include all ages.

In order to evaluate buildings and objects and decide which would lend themselves best to her idea, Mary accompanied a regular tour of sighted third-grade children. She observed carefully what held their interest, what amused them. Then, with a guide, she followed the same route, the same tour, wearing a blindfold.

Now unable to see, Mary attempted to appraise objects from that standpoint — which objects responded well to touch, which might be unsafe or unpleasant to handle, which would convey clear images and adapt to interesting commentary.

SHE CHOSE three buildings full of the scent of oiled wood and the sound of the slow-ticking wag-on-wall clocks —the Brothers House, the Tavern and the Bakery. Then she selected two partially sighted children — Joe and Tanya.

Mary prepared a running commentary carefully to punctuate and enhance the impressions the children would absorb from hearing the tinsmith flatten his material or from feeling the pliable beeswax or from smelling the weeds and plants used for dyeing cloth in the weaving room.

At the end of a month of research and preparation, on Joe and Tanya's first "real" tour, Mary learned how theory and its application don't always coincide.

She was startled by the unexpected in the children's questions: What made the long rifle so heavy (the gunmaker helped her out on this)? Where does beeswax come from?

Handmade wooden buckets filled with soap appealed to both children, and the feel of the smooth, age-worn, wooden kitchen utensils in the Brothers House delighted them.

Mary explained the uses of the old slaw cutter, the straw whisks and the heavy iron kettles. But Joe had difficulty relating this kitchen with the easy kitchens of today. Why would anyone but witches need such caldrons?

THE OVERSIZED cookie cutters in the tinsmith's room — cutters in the shape of dogs, cats, girls, violins — held their attention. In the weaving room, Mary asked them to smell, then taste, onion skins, used for dyeing yarn yellow. She also poured walnut bark through their fingers.

This appealed to them less than the shape and movement of the spinning wheel nearby.

Climax of the tour was Winkler's Bakery, which has been baking sugar cake, cookies, and bread since 1800. Here sounds, smells, touch and taste all merged — in a handful of freshly baked cookies for each.

For Mary, this is just a beginning. She has submitted a guide list for future tours for the blind at Old Salem and has outlined a guide book to be done in braille which will include a brief history of the Moravian settlement and a description of the tour. Upon graduation, she plans to work towards master's degree in rehabilitation for the blind.

'Liberated' Cosmetics On The Way

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — We have women's liberation. Now we're heading for "liberated" cosmetics.

One expert on consumer tastes and buying says that both sexes will begin to accept new varieties in the whole world of body decoration and that the cosmetics business, already a multibillion dollar one, will keep growing.

"Liberated cosmetics" is the term used by Dr. Ernest Dichter, who is head of the Institute for Motivational Research, Inc., headquartered at Crotoln-on Hudson, N.Y.

"The field for cosmetics is as big as the female and male body," says Dr. Dichter. "New parts of the body — such as the knee — will be decorated and embellished.

"FOR EXAMPLE, a French company has been developing stencils to 'tattoo' any part of the body you want.

"In the future also, cosmetics will be in competition with drugs and psychiatry. We may have anti-depression perfumes . . . cosmetics for introverts and extroverts . . . for more specialized occasions . . . honey- moon cosmetics, perhaps."

Dichter takes a look at new attitudes in the cosmetics world in his "Findings", an occasional newsletter from his Hudson Valley offices.

He says the cosmetics industry has a whole new growth potential if it stops selling its multitude of products as "once a week items, as extravagant and overly romantic, slightly immoral . . . and make them an everyday necessity for coping with modern life that is really a part of nature . . . "

Part of the whole change of attitude, he indicates, is woman's desire for the "natural" cosmetics and their use as an everyday ritual.

"MANY ADVERTISERS are still depicting cosmetics as if applying them was still special, earth shaking," he says.

Dichter calls on the industry to look at cosmetics the way a woman does, not as a "glamour product that will give her the prince she is dreaming about, but as very practical everyday makeup that provides a more desirable 'front' to other people" and to herself.

He sees the future cosmetics industry as not only telling the woman what a product will do for her looks but also what a product produces in the "fun and pleasure" of applications. Here, he refers to the "narcissistic element" and a putdown of emphasis of the "conquest of the partner so prevalent now."

"It's possible," says Dichter, "that a future cosmetic may not promise 'more beautiful skin' — merely a lot of fun putting it on while you take your time.

"A woman wants the excuse cosmetics provide to spend time caressing herself — alone."

Drug Abusers Get Boost Toward New Way Of Life

By BARBARA HOSMER

Two women beginning psychotherapy and rehabilitation counseling careers are serving as interns at the Marin Institute in San Rafael, working with "people who are drug abusers — a large proportion of whom abuse alcohol."

That's the way one of the two women, Ingrid Dickson of San Francisco, explained her work at the institute where she is a therapist and rehabilitation counselor.

Mrs. Dickson said she "became interested in people" by being involved in the Parent-Teacher Association as the mother of seven children and in other community activities.

Through the years she obtained a college degree in psychology and now is finishing work toward an M.S. degree in rehabilitation counseling. Since September she has done her field work at Marin Institute, in group and individual psychotherapy with alcohol and drug abusers, their upouses, children and others concerned.

"I WOULD like to stay in the field of alcohol and other drug abuse counseling for awhile, and to go where my potential and someone's needs match up," Mrs. Dickson said.

The second woman, Joan Kimmelman of Corte Madera, has been doing field work at Marin Institute since September and at Marin Open House. Mrs. Kimmelman plans to become a psychotherapist and is working toward a Ph.D. degree at California School of Professional Psychology in San Francisco. A native of England, she attended Cambridge University and has a degree in psychology and a master's degree in clinical psychology from San Francisco State College. Mrs. Kimmelman is doing her dissertation on women's identity crisis.

Mrs. Dickson said she does counseling at Marin Institute for 24 hours a week and the experience "has been more than I hoped it would be."

"In school they give theoretical ways to work. At Marin Institute I see those ideas working without rigidity."

Working with people who are facing problems, she said, is "really rewarding."

"It's true we don't see the finished product, but I do see people doing what they do in life with a little more joy."

Many of the people in the therapy groups are men in their 40s and 50s who seek help after they have had trouble holding jobs, she said, but added that there are also many women who come.

Mrs. Dickson said general statistics show three out of four persons troubled with alcoholism are men, but she held a suspicion that women were drinking or taking diet pills at home, a less conspicuous but equally serious problem. In the on-going groups at the institute, she said, the ratio of men and women is about equal.

"I like to see my role as facilitating them to open up their role to what they want to do," she said.

MRS. DICKSON said "a machine got me into the people business." Early in life she wanted to be a ballet dancer, then an opera singer, but instead found herself typing and housekeeping. She attended college at 21, following her marriage, but dropped out and began working again as a secretary. Later she returned to college full-time, expecting to become a teacher.

"But I couldn't decide what I wanted to teach because I didn't want to narrow myself to one field. Then an IBM machine decided for me."

A computer test matched her interests with those that make a successful psychologist. Thus her degree in psychology and on to a new career goal — helping those with alcholism and drug problems toward a more rewarding way of life.

She credits her year with Marin Institute, which has taken interns for several years, as contributing much to her career enthusiasm.

Ingrid Dickson prefers to work with adults. As she puts it, "I've spent so much of my life with children that it's a change."

Newcomer Club's New President

Swimming, antiques, decorating and gardening are among the interests of Mrs. George C. Jones Jr. of Novato, president of the Novato Newcomer's Club.

Thelma Jones was born in Portland, Me., and attended the University of Maine and Bixby Business College in St. Petersburg, Fla. She also served in the WAVES for two years. She and her husband, vice president of the Gray Line, Inc., have lived in Marin County four years. They have two married sons, Wayne and Keith Jones.

The new president is treasurer of the Novato Federated Women's Club and is a member of the San Francisco Kiwanis Auxiliary. She has served as program chairman and reservations chairman for the newcomers club.

Membership in the club is open to any woman who has lived in Novato two years or less. Mrs. Jones said, "My aim for the coming year (for the club) is full participation of members and social evening for couples."

Projects and activities planned for the year are night club tours, evening gourmets, swimming parties, a Christmas ball, a family picnic, a fashion show and the monthly activities.

Other officers serving with Mrs. Jones are Mmes. Wallace Skarshaug, vice president; Ronald Tashjian, secretary; John Maguire, treasurer; and Paul Steinkamp, parliamentarian. Committee chairmen are Mmes. Charles Nicolosi, activities; Robert Walk, program; Edward Lertora, hospitality; Michael Sweeley, publicity; George Tuthill, membership; Emile Patrick, social; and Bernard Giorgi, reservations.

Correct Author Of Child Abuse Legislative Action

The Independent-Journal stated Thursday that it was Dr. Patricia Hallinan of Ross who was instrumental in getting a child abuse bill to the state Legislature.

The bill, AB150, was that of Assemblyman Leo Ryan (D-San Mateo) and her part was only to supply him with photographs and material about children who had been physically abused, Dr. Hallinan said.

The bill makes it a misdemeanor not to report an alleged child beating and says the child may be taken from parents the first time he is abused and shall be taken the second. It also requires psychiatrict counseling for the abuser, according to Dr. Hallinan.

Dr. Hallinan, who is the pediatrician for the Atypical Infant Development Center in Kentfield, will speak Tuesday at 12:40 p.m. at Redwood High School during a public program sponsored by Women on the Move.

Ads For Teen 'Blue Movies' Insult This High School Girl

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

I noticed an ad in the amusement section of the paper about one of those raunchy blue movies (sex, sex, sex!) rated "X." It said, "An intimate study of the hidden lives of our teenage girls — shocking, revealing, true!"

My friends and I (and I'll bet a lot of other teenagers) find this ad —and the movie no doubt — a personal insult to us. We are the girls they're talking about — implying that school girls are rotten, dirty, sex-crazy dogs.

Another thing that gets us upset is that we aren't even old enough to see the movie, yet we're supposedly the ones performing this filth. And a lot of adults judge us because of such films, books, etc.

I'm a junior in high school, very active in sports, clubs and school government. I don't do X-rated things, and neither do my friends; in fact, most of the girls I know are about like me, and not interested in changing.

We think "exposes" of high school vice are degrading to us. What do you think? — MARGARET

DEAR MARGARET:

From what I've read about those quickie, X-rated, blue movies, they're a bunch of dull, tasteless rubbish with a lot of sex scenes and no plot, and I wouldn't go to one, even if I could.

They're degrading to everybody, not just teenagers, but I don't think the kind of adults-who-count judge us by these films — because that kind of adult stays away from them, too. — SUE

DEAR M.:

Score one for a straight-thinking school girl. Your point is well taken — if teenagers are banned from a movie which supposedly tells the truth about them, then there's either something wrong with the ratings or else tremendously false about the film.

I doubt that hard core (or should I say rotten core?) blue movies will be around much longer. The plotless cheapies don't attract the young crowd who prefers more for its money than exaggerated sex, and most older people only attend once out of curiosity (unless they're repressed voyeurs). — HELEN

DEAR RAP:

My girl friend doesn't like the way I dress, eat, talk, wear my clothes, have my hair cut; you name it and she wants to change it.

At first, I went along with her because her family is better off than mine, and I figured she could teach me how to act. But she thinks I should be a carbon copy of the guys that sit around her pool. I don't have anything to say to them and probably never will. She hounds me about this and also not being able to carry on a conversation with her parents. She's always criticizing.

I love this girl, but I'm beginning to realize I like the way I am, and my own folks are more real than hers, and my own friends also. How do I tell her I'm not just a hunk of — MOLDING CLAY

DEAR M.C.:

You may not know it yet, but I'll bet you're close to telling this girl "good-bye." Firm up that "common clay," and get on with it. — HELEN

DEAR M.:

Yeah. Why stay with a girl who only likes you when you're trying to be somebody else? Tell her you've got to be you — just before you say, "See you then" (meaning not often). — SUE

Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, in care of the Independent-Journal, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.

Hang On To Your Wallet: Deluge In 'China Products' Is Expected

FUNCTION PLUS BEAUTY — Before Ping-Pong diplomacy developed, Baker Furniture Co. was involved in its Far East collection. Each year new pieces have been added and the setting shown here includes a card table found illustrated in a book called "Chinese Household Furniture."

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY

Hold on to your wallets. The China-watchers in the home furnishings industry are joyously knocking out all things Chinese and we, the consumers, are in for a deluge of household products with an Oriental overtone.

Haven't we been this way before? There was a long love affair with the Near and Far East during the 1950s and early 1960s when so much of our efforts were being pumped into the reconstruction of Japan and the Pacific islands.

Everything we can learn about another culture and other ways of resolving in-house problems such as storage, lighting and furniture design adds dimension to our lives.

BUT UNFORTUNATELY along with the good concepts and the classic colors and forms come the trivia dreamed up by money-hungry manufacturers who are just trying to cash in on a current vogue.

So you may as well be prepared. It's in all in works. Mock bamboo ad nauseum, Chinese calligraphy, Oriental-looking furniture, lamps and accessories. Some of it will be superbly executed; some trash. Even some of the disposable products and bed and bath linens will reflect this rush to capitalize on the Chinese potential.

For some reason manufacturers in the home furnishings industry and, perhaps, the automobile and food industry, (Are you ready for a car called the Rickshaw or Pagoda?) find it necessary to follow "trends." The recent Mediterranean mania is an example. Those were good years for the boys in the back rooms of the furnishings industry. They could just dream up new interpretations of Spanish, Italian and Mexican furniture and floor covering, add more decorative trim or hardware, label the design Encanto or Villa D'Este or Hacienda and they could sell merchandise. In between market dates they would ask: "What's the trend this year? Still Spanish?"

IN DEFENSE of furniture and accesory makers, I will say they have good reason to want to be with the "in" concept. Remember the year fashion almost died with the midi? It won't soon be forgotten by any industry members. And a furniture manufacturer has to protect a big investment in molds, frames, upholstery and fabrics. He can't afford too many goofups.

Even with this understanding, I hate to see the industry rushing into another trend period. The truly great Oriental concepts can be presented in proper perspective and some furniture makers have continued to reinterpret and reproduce fine museum-quality pieces with Far Eastern influences.

One company, Baker of Holland, Mich., has consistently searched historical records and museums for unusual, lasting designs which they then execute in limited editions. Each piece is destined for longevity, since the attention to detail in some cases exceeds the original work. They have achieved beneficial results by using contemporary technology in wood finishes and fabrics, technology that any period's craftsman would have applied had the information been available in his time.

Other manufacturers such as Tomlinson, Drexel, Heritage, Henredon, McGuire and Kittinger have successfully and rationally used the Orient, the Middle East and Far East for inspiration.

It will be interesting to see how many new entries in this China-watching period will have a thoughtful sane approach to Eastern design concepts and how many will be instant Chinese.

Prison Term For 2 Of Los Siete

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A slain policemen's widow watched Monday while a superior court judge sentenced two members of "Los Siete" to from 30 years to life in prison for a series of robberies.

Another young Latin-American, convicted of the same holdups but not a member of "Los Siete," was sentenced to from 20 years to life.

Watching silently was Mrs. Joseph Brodnik, widow of a San Francisco patrolman who was shot and killed during a Mission District stolen property investigation.

Also present was Paul McGoran, Brodnik's partner who has since retired from the force.

"Los Siete," or "The Seven," were a group of Latin-Americans who were acquitted after a lengthy trial of charges that they killed Brodnik.

The two "Los Siete" members sentenced for the robberies were Gary Lescallet, 20, and Danilo Melendez, 19, who were arrested after an attempted holdup which ended in a shootout with police. A jury convicted them three weeks ago.

Antiwar Vets Are Cleared Of Sit-In Charges

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Thirteen antiwar veterans were acquitted Monday of misdemeanor trespass charges resulting from a sit-in at the South Vietnamese consulate here.

A municipal court jury of eight women and four men returned the innocent verdicts after a 19-day trial.

The defendants, members of Vietnam Veterans Against the War, testified they were "compelled by conscience" to stage the Dec. 29 protest.

Jurors said Judge Harold Low's instructions convinced them of the veterans' innocence. They said the defendants had no intention of remaining permanently at the consulate, the requirement for conviction.

Consumer Plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Henry A. Waxman, D-Los Angeles, has introduced a consumer bill requiring 30-day warranties on repairs of cars, television and other items.

Quarry Area Given Single-Family Status

Despite arguments that rezoning will cause a terrific loss to the owner, the Corte Madera Planning Commission last night rezoned a quarry behind the new library from multiple-residential to single-family.

The action followed disclosure by attorney Julius H. Selinger of San Anselmo that the owner, American Savings and Loan Association, is about to sell the land for $550,000 to a Southern California developer.

According to planning commissioner David I. Freed, Selinger called experts from the loan company and Riley Construction Co. of Los Angeles to show the rezoning would harm the deal.

Freed said the Southern California building company wants to build 290 condominium apartments in the bowl behind the Corte Madera branch of the Marin County library.

Freed said the acreage was excavated to provide fill for the Madera Gardens subdivision.

The planning commissioner said a standing-room-only crowd in the town council chambers viewed more disagreement on the commission than at any time in the recent past. He said 3-2 votes were logged on three different applications.

Town council candidate I. Thomas Zaragoza blasted the commission as unresponsive when it continued a hearing on a housing statement to an adjourned meeting March 30 although some spectators wanted to speak on the issue, Freed said.

Corte Madera Planning Commission Also:

LIQUOR STORE — Turned down by a 3-2 vote a Colonial Liquor store proposed by Wendell L. and Georgia W. Brown of Ross for an abandoned gas station next to town hall because of landscaping deficiency and possible traffic congestion. Commissioners James W. McClintock and William Collier dissented.

LIGHT INDUSTRIAL — Refused to rezone a lot at 1 Fifer Avenue from light industrial to local shopping district by a 3-2 vote and, in the same motion, protested the inadequacy of the shopping district category and lack of funds for zoning upgrading. Freed and John W. Gates dissented.

SHOPPING CENTER — Approved a partial master plan for the Corte Madera Center including a movie building to house two cinemas and a bank or title company building, but refused to approve a restaurant building in the plan. Chairman C. William Thomas and John W. McClintock dissented.

NURSERY — Approved a plant nursery at 3 First Street for Joseph Van Pelt of San Anselmo.

RESTAURANT — Approved a Sizzler Restaurant on a vacant lot at 101 Nellen Avenue for Frank Schneider and Associates of Hollywood despite protests from residents of Lucky Drive.

CONDOMINIUM — Approved 14 condominiums on about 1.5 vacant acres at 62 Lucky Drive to be built by the Western Real Estate Development Corp. of San Francisco.

HOME JOBS — Disapproved a proposal to tighten the town code relating to home occupations, but did add a clause stating home jobs g should be limited to those that do not disturb neighbors.

MORATORIUM — Put over to April 10 a report on the mechanics of a moratorium that could not be put into effect until the town general plan is revised.

SIGNS — Approved a proposed amendment allowing one square foot of sign for each linear foot of frontage for stores in C-3 zones. Ar present C-3 zoning allows two square feet, twice that allowed in other commercial zones.

SIGN — Turned down a request by the Marin Management Co. which runs the Corte Madera Center to erect a reader board until 13 kiosks considered illegal are removed.

DELAY — Put over to April 10 a proposed regulation to enforce landscape maintenance, a report on the open space element of the general plan, a discussion of bus shelters and future controls on condominiums.

MEADOWSWEET — Put off to a possible special meeting discussing a tentative map of the proposed Meadowsweet Station development to give staff time to study it.

Homeowners Pick President

Richard Courier, a Novato policeman, was elected president of the Petaluma Valley Homeowners Association last night.

Also elected were Mickey Stammer, vice president, and Irene Eisenhut, treasurer. Publicity chairman Donna Tyson said a secretary would be elected later.

Muriel Birkland, chairman of the parks committee, reported that blacktop work should begin this week at La Tercera Park and tentatively set tomorrow for members to plant shrubs.

The association agreed to assist the city of petaluma in work at the new Miwok Valley Park on St. Francis Drive when work is complete at La Tercera.

Bench Warrant Out For Brock

A bench warrant with no bail was issued yesterday in Marin Superior Court for Walter J. Brock, 30, of San Francisco, because he had failed to keep appointments with a probation officer while awaiting sentencing.

Brock pleaded guilty in January to a charge of car theft.

He was arrested Dec. 9 by San Rafael police who discovered he was driving a car stolen from a San Francisco leasing firm. Brock had been stopped for questioning about a burglary.

Easter Egg Roll Slated April 3

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The annual Easter Egg Roll will take place on the White House lawn Monday, April 3, complete with the usual bands and clowns to entertain the thousands of children who will be admitted to the grounds.

There were indications, however, that the Nixons would be out of town, probably spending the Easter holiday at their San Clemente, Calif., home.

Florida Primary Attracts A Large Voter Turnout

MIAMI (UPI) — Floridians voted in heavy numbers and beautiful weather today in a presidential primary which was expected to produce a victory for Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and have a crucial effect on the prospects of five major candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination.

A heavy turnout of Negroes—15 per cent of the electorate—was reported in Fort Lauderdale. In Orlando after two hours 100 voters had cast ballots in a bellwether precinct where only 60 had voted in the last general election.

At some places in Miami, up to 50 voters were waiting in line when the polls opened.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Henry M. Jackson of Washington and George S. McGovern of South Dakota and Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York were battling for second place—conceding victory in advance to Wallace, who rode sentiment against compulsory school busing for all it was worth.

All were optimistic today about their chances of emerging from the nation's second primary—the first to put them all together—with enough support to give impetus to their campaigns in primaries yet to come.

"I think we're going to do very well," Humphrey said, refusing to rule out the possibility that he could even beat Wallace on the strength of his labor, black and Jewish support in Florida.

McGovern said a finish even "close to second" would be "remarkable."

Wallace, who would gain attention and bargaining power at the Miami Beach convention in July if he won a bloc of delegates here, disavowed any intention "at this time" of pulling out of the Democratic party and making the presidential race on a third party ticket. "The people can change the direction of the Democratic party and I can win the nomination," he said in a television interview.

Around St. Petersburg, some poll workers said today's turnout was "the best we've had in years." But in Leon County—the area around the state capital of Tallahassee—an election official said the turnout was "just above average."

Forum Set On Youths' Problems

The Rohnert Park Recreation Commission last night approved a community forum for March 22 to hear problems of youths.

Recreation Director James Pekkain said the forum will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. and involve adults from various local agencies and service groups, including schools, police, recreation, counselors and the ministerial association. He told the commission he hoped the forum would open lines of communication between the groups as well as between adults and teen-agers.

Pekkain said the program would be open to any concerns the teen-agers wish to discuss, and probably would touch on vandalism, drug problems, recreation problems and counseling needs.

Kentfield To Cut Teachers By Four

Faced with declining enrollment, the Kentfield School District board last night voted to reduce its staff by four teachers next year.

The board unanimously warned four teachers they will not be rehired unless four teachers leave the district next year, according to Barbara Ruzicka, secretary to the superintendent.

The board had been considering dropping four of its approximately 65 teachers because enrollment is expected to drop from 374 to 320 pupils next year.

Placed on notice were Katherine von Settern, a fourth grade teacher at Wolfe Grade School; Victoria Boyer, a sixth grade teacher at Adaline E. Kent School; Gerald Miramontes, an art teacher, and Elizabeth Cabana, girls physical education instructor, Mrs. Ruzicka said.

Parents and teachers had argued at length during previous meetings against staff cuts because they felt the four teachers were exceptional. They favored savings in other areas.

However, the board had told all four they were hired last August for only a year.

The board last year decided to reduce staff by three through attrition, but, because four teachers resigned in August after class assignments were made, all were replaced.

Mrs. Ruzicka said two or three teachers are expected to resign or go on leave. Who would be dismissed in that case would be decided by lot, she said.

She said about 40 persons attended last night's meeting.

The Kentfield School District Board Also:

LITTLE LEAGUE — Granted a request by the Kentfield-Greenbrae Little League to use the district's three baseball diamonds for baseball games between March 4 and July 22.

SACRAMENTO — The state Department of Public Works has awarded a $39,997 contract to a San Rafael firm to replace light poles along Highway 101 and Highway 17 with a safer model.

L.H. Leonardi Electric Construction Co. was low bidder at the bid opening Feb. 16.

The Highway 101 lights between the California Park area south of San Rafael and the Ignacio overcrossing south of Novato, and on Highway 17 between the San Quentin overcrossing and San Rafael will be repositioned on "breakaway" bases to lessen injuries should vehicles strike the poles. The work is to be completed by midsummer.

How to Stop Smoking April 2 at 3:00 p.m.

On Sunday afternoon, April 2, a group of men and women will arrive — one by one — at the St. Helena Health Center. Most will not know each other. But all will have a common purpose — to stop smoking. Join this group and you will work with our team of experts (physicians, physical therapists and clinical counselors) for five days. You will learn how to overcome the physical addiction to tobacco, how to restore lost breathing capacity, how to cope with the tensions that "call for a cigarette", and how to keep your weight in line. By Friday, April 7, you should be able to return home free of nicotine and in better health than you've been for a long time. (The fresh mountain air, attractive private rooms and good food make the St. Helena experience a real rest cure.) Send the coupon now for more details, or telephone for our brochure.

Parents Ask New School Classroom Plans Switch

A group of Mill Valley School District parents asked board members last night to convert one section of the district's new Middle School to structured classrooms, as opposed to the present plan for four sections or "pods" of open classrooms.

The board listened to the request, made by Dr. Sheldon Wolff in behalf of the group, but took no action, according to Patsy White, secretary to Dist. Supt. James A. Collins.

Wolff's presentation will be put in writing and taken before the board again at its next meeting, she said.

The board also announced assignments of school principals for the coming school year, she said.

They are: Dominic Dobbio will remain at Alto School; Delmo Della-Dora, Edna Maguire Middle School, will become Middle School principal; James McDonough will be promoted to principal from vice principal at Homestead School; David Erskine will be transferred from Old Mill School to the principalship of Marin Terrace School; Alfred Gordin will remain as head of Strawberry Point School, as will Robert Devilbiss at Tamalpais Valley School.

The district is looking for a principal for Old Mill School, center of a controversy last year over "innovative" vs. "basic" education. A committee on principal selection reported to the board that applications will close April 14 and interviews for the position will be held April 28-29.

Once the number of applicants is cut, candidates will be interviewed by the board, she said. The polition will be filled on July 1.

Two Youths Fall From Bikes, Hurt

Two Marin youngsters were injured, one seriously, in two bicycle accidents last weekend, the California Highway Patrol said today.

Stephen K. Chipman, 12, of 1341 Denlyn Street, Novato, was reported in good condition today at Letterman Hospital in the Presidio of San Francisco with a fractured skull suffered in an accident which occurred about noon Sunday.

Officers said Chipman was riding his bike southbound on Novato Boulevard, north of San Marin Drive, when the vehicle's front wheel began to vibrate and he was thrown to the ground.

Shauna McCoy, 14, of 90 Dominican Drive, San Rafael, was treated for cuts and scrapes at Marin General Hospital Saturday after an accident on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

The highway patrol said Miss McCoy was westbound about 10 a.m. when a speeding car forced her bike onto the road shoulder, causing her to be thrown from the vehicle. The auto did not stop, officers said.

Booking Made In Pot Probe

A Rohnert Park man was arrested by San Rafael police yesterday on suspicion of possessing marijuana.

John C. Strange Jr., 25, of 108 Fiesta Lane, was held at Marin County Jail to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Police said they went to an area above Robert Dollar Drive at about 4:40 p.m. on a report of motorcyclists on the hillside. They found no motorcyclist, but said they saw Strange sitting on the hill, apparently rolling something in his hands.

A search revealed a plastic bag of green vegetable matter believed to be marijuana, officers said.

Ships On Duty During Nixon's Visit To China

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A Pentagon source has said there were four American ships in the Taiwan Straits between Taiwan and China at the time of President Nixon's visit to the mainland.

Earlier, the Pentagon had said there were no American ships in the strait at the time. But Monday, the source said the error was traced to "flag pilot," a Defense Department section that keeps track of Navy ships around the globe.

The source said one to two-day patrols were made during the period by a U.S. destroyer, a repair ship and an amphibious command ship, and that a landing ship made a "partial patrol."

Howard Arneson's ocean racing boat flies over the water of San Francisco Bay during a recent test run.

Hitting Waves At 70 Miles Per Hour

By RON LENT

WARNING: Cigarettes may be hazardous to your health, but what about Cigarette?

The American Cancer Society has stamped its caution comment on cigarette cartons but says nothing about Cigarette, a Miami-based firm which produced the 1971 world champion ocean racing boat owned by San Rafael businessman Howard M. Arneson. (The name of the boat building company, Cigarette, is derived from a famous rum-running boat, the "Cigarette" which made a name for itself during prohibition days in the New York area.)

Arneson recently bought the Boss O'Nova III from its New York owner, Bill Wishnick, for $50,000 and subsequently renamed and reworked the ship.

Arneson, 49, began, "I immediately renamed the ship Nauti Eve II after my wife, Eva, and I repainted the ship, "giving it blue and red stripes on a white hull."

The nine-month old ship now has a new look, title — and role; "I plan to use it mainly for pleasure," Arneson continued. "I like speed, and it certainly has that."

Indeed.

The 36-foot, 10,000-pound ship with a sleek, fiber glass body demonstrated its penchant for speed by winning six of 10 international ocean races last year enroute to the world title.

Much of its race success can be traced to its two 496 cubic-inch Kiekhaefer Mercury race engines mounted in the stern. The 500 horsepower motors are staggered, thus "giving better drive in the water," said Arneson.

These motors use 130 octane aviation fuel stored in four all-aluminum fuel tanks encased in beds of foam. These tanks are mounted two on each side of the stern and two more immediately forward of the cockpit.

Because the boat burns an estimated 76 gallons per hour, Arneson decided to obtain a 1000-gallon fuel tank he keeps at the Loch Lomond Marina.

He also purchased a one-ton truck which hauls the boat. The truck is characterized by dual rear wheels, a special traveling permit and an unusually large motor.

"It was raced in Southern California, Miami, Europe, and the Bahamas, among other places," he noted.

Although its racing days apparently are over, the ship has not slowed down. On the contrary. "I take it out whenever I can — on weekends, during the middle of the week, because I still get a big kick out of its speed," said Arneson.

"It is really something when you are going through ocean waters at 75 miles an hour and suddenly go soaring into the air to a landing some 20 feet away. The boat takes quite a pounding," he admitted.

However, the ship can apparently take it. "The fiber glass body is an inch and a quarter thick in some places, so you've got to believe it is truly strong."

But, then, so is the pilot, Arneson. This San Rafael adventurer, along with two others, usually a navigator and a repairman, challenge the harrowing waves while standing up in the vessel.

"You've got to stand up," he smiled, "because there are no seats." In the three spaces alloted, there are merely three padded, snugly-fitting compartments of leather-like matter.

Like the rider areas, the entire ship has protective qualities. "The ship is reinforced by glass and ribs molded diagonally, enabling the ship to withstand the beatings the ocean can dish out," Arneson stated.

This Indianapolis race car of the boating field is kept in the Loch Lomond Marina in San Rafael.

"I still play with it in the (San Francisco) Bay," the affable owner said, "but I also enjoy zipping it up to the Delta in the Stockton area, and other places where I can take it out and go as fast as I like."

The veteran driver, however, is a strict advocate of following Coast Guard and dock area rules. "I'll always stay within the limits in the dock areas," Arneson vowed; "anyway, you can use all the speed you want when you are out in the open waters. In these open areas, there is enough room to permit you to open her (the ship) up and go as fast as you want."

Arneson is certainly no stranger to speed. In bygone years, he raced hydroplanes, small, swift, flat-bottomed motorboats. "I flipped over twice, and ended up in the hospital. But I wasn't seriously hurt," he recalled.

Undaunted by this mishap, Arneson returned to the waters and bought five speedy boats in the last three years — "because I enjoy it so much. I love the challenge of getting past the next wave.

"I started out with a 30-foot boat, then got a 34, 47, 40 and then a 27 magnum, which is a civilian version of an ocean race boat. It is like an ocean race boat but has a few things that the regular racer wouldn't have, like a stereo and things such as that," he enthused.

The Benicia-born sportsman then pointed out, "I've always had some boat for as long as I can remember, whether it was a row boat or speed boat. I've always had one kind or another.

"But the boat I have now is my biggest thrill ever. It is like a dream come true. You know, most people have dreams of getting something they can never get, myself included. But I found I could get those things, and that is really something for me," the nattily attired executive asserted.

From rowboats to world champion ocean racers, Howard M. Arneson has come a long way.

Marquette In Tourney

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Marquette University fans, officials and players Monday night heaved a collective sigh of relief after the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) reversed its ruling of a day earlier and said the Warriors could continue in the NCAA tournament.

Marquette University fans, officials and players Monday night heaved a collective sigh of relief after the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) reversed its ruling of a day earlier and said the Warriors could continue in the NCAA tournament.

For 24 hours the NCAA had been saying Marquette was out because Bob Lackey, captain and senior forward for the 7th ranked Warriors had not signed an affidavit disclaiming reports he had retained an agent to negotiate a professional contract.

But Lackey dispelled the bad dream the Warriors and their fans lived through by relenting Monday and signing the affidavit. The NCAA immediately reinstated Marquette and the whole thing was over.

"I'm very happy for the players, the student body and the fans," said head Coach Al McGuire. Lackey himself admitted he was "glad it's over" but said "I felt like I was going to play...I hadn't done anything."

The short-lived incident started Friday when the NCAA asked Lackey to sign the 15 question affidavit. Coach McGuire cautioned him about signing it without legal advice and Lackey refused, though other players in the same situation signed the paper.

Assistant Coach Hank Raymonds said Lackey didn't sign because the situation was like someone "awakening you at 2 a.m. in the morning and saying 'hey, you come down to headquarters with us and sign this.' He naturally wanted legal advice."

Lackey and the Warriors went on Saturday to beat Ohio University 73-49 in first round NCAA plays. After the game the NCAA filed its complaint and on Sunday afternoon said Marquette was out of the tournament unless it appealed the ruling and could prove Lackey didn't hire an agent.

That began a frantic 24 hour period for the Warriors as the university's athletic board went into an extended meeting that lasted until early Monday morning. And Marquette fans went to bed in doubt about their team and flooded news agencies with pleas for the latest dope on the Warrior suspension.

But the issue was quickly resolved Monday when Warren Brown, assistant NCAA executive director, came to town to confer with Marquette officials. Lackey signed the affidavit in the presence of Brown, coach McGuire and others and that was that.

Raymonds and other Marquette officials said they hadn't really been worried about the whole thing because they knew Lackey was guiltless.

Two Lefties Funny; Third Is Blue

By RALPH CHATOIAN

There's always a story or two coming from Lefty Gomez of Fairfax, new Hall of Fame pitcher who has been spending some of his time at the Giants spring training headquarters in Phoenix.

The former New York Yankee great is now a representative for Wilson Sporting Goods and one of the wittiest story tellers ever to play the game of baseball.

One of the stories making the rounds is about the day Lefty decided to give his own test to Tony Lazzeri, who was considered one of the smartest players of his time.

With a runner on first base and nobody out, the batter hit one right back at Gomez, who took the ball on the first hop and wheeled to start a double play at second base. But instead of throwing to Frank Crosetti, the shortstop who was racing toward the bag, he tossed to Lazzeri, the second baseman, who was standing motionless to one side.

"What was the big idea?" Tony asked, after throwing late to first base.

"Well," Gomez replied, "I've been hearing how smart you are and I decided to find out what you'd do with the ball when you weren't expecting it."

AND WHEN I think about baseball stories, I always remember the one that Walter "The Great" Mails told me about his pitching days with the Cleveland Indians in the early '20s. Mails, now with the Giants' speakers bureau and still very much active at age 77, was asked about his pick-off move to first base, since he was a left-hander and had an advantage over right-handers.

"Did I have a move to first base?" repeated Mails incredulously. "There was this guy on first base," said Mails, "and I noticed he had a habit of tapping his left foot on the bag before taking a lead. I picked him off between taps."

Quite a card that Walter, a man who was born in San Quentin village before the turn of the

Niners Set Two Marin Benefits

The San Francisco 49ers basketball team will make two Marin County benefit appearances in the near future, playing the San Rafael High School faculty Friday and the Drake High faculty next Thursday, both at 8 p.m.

The Niner team will include John Isenbarger, whose last-minute play enabled the Prospectors to shade San Rafael last year, 91-89. "He used to be a high school All-America," said San Rafael athletic director Mike Diaz sadly. Wide receiver Gene Washington and defensive back Bruce Taylor provide speed and mobility, while center Forrest Blue and tight end Ted Kwalick provide sheer brawn.

The Drake faculty team will include such stars as "Cappy" Lavin, Jack Hayes and Dr. Tom Lorch, plus a few "ringers" — former University of San Francisco stars Phil Vukicevich and Don Giesen and Drake High's finest all-time athletic, Reg Carolan.

The San Rafael team will include former major college performers such as Diaz (California) and John Donovan (Montana), ex-San Rafael stars Bret Tovani and Bill Monti, and faculty members Milt Hain and Fred Clawson. "At least we won't give away any weight," said Diaz.

The Drake game proceeds will go towards a new baseball diamond for the Fairfax-Sleepy Hollow Little League at the Whitehill School in Fairfax. Tickets can be purchased for $1.50 at Drake High, Marin Poultry or The Collective in San Anselmo, the Fairfax Shell gasoline station, or Taveggia-Brusati in San Rafael. The playoff for the San Anselmo Recreation Championship will precede the 49er game at 6:30 p.m.

The San Rafael game proceeds will benefit the San Rafael athletic department. Tickets will cost $2 for adults, $1.50 for students and $1 for children under 12. They will be available at the gate and in advance at the San Rafael student store.

Marin 'Cats Maul Analy In Baseball

Apparently confusing baseball season with football season, Marin Catholic High School yesterday pounded out a 20-0 victory over Analy High in Sebastopol, giving it five consecutive fictories after a season-opening defeat.

Redwood, however, intruded on the Wildcats' reveries by yesterday defeating the only team to top Marin Catholic. Redwood rode the pitching and hitting of Gene Frey to a 4-3 victory over visiting Lincoln of San Francisco.

In other action involving Marin County Athletic League teams, San Rafael lost to visiting Riordan of San Francisco, 5-0, and Tamalpais fell to Crestmoor in San Bruno, 5-2.

The 'Cats collected 21 hits against Analy and put 39 runners on base. Mickey Hurley drove in five runs, Paul Riccardi went four-for four, and Vince Bormolini managed to reach base in each of the seven innings on four hits, a walk, a hit batsman and an error.

Jim Lowe and Mickey Simmons combined for a three-hitter and stretched the Wildcats' string of consecutive scoreless innings to 15. Marin Catholic hurlers have yielded three runs in their last five games.

IN LOS ANGELES

Frazier-Ali Rematch Near

NEW YORK (UPI) —Heavyweight champion Joe Frazier and Muhammad Ali will probably meet in a return match in September in the Los Angeles Forum, it was revealed Monday.

Jack Kent Cooke, owner of the Los Angeles Lakers pro basketball team and the Los Angeles Kings hockey team, holds the rights to the rematch, sports commentator Howard Cosell said on "Monday Night Sports," televised by the American Broadcasting Company.

Cosell, interviewing the key figures in the heavyweight match won by Frazier a year ago, talked to Frazier, Ali, and their respective lawyers, Bruce Wright and Bob Arum, and Cooke.

It had been thought that Cooke had a two-year agreement for promoting the fight, but he told Cosell that "this is the first time I am announcing publicly that my option lasts for more than two years."

Actually, Arum said, Cook's contract ran in perpetuity and that if the fighters ever want to meet in a rematch they must fight for Cooke.

Frazier and Ali were understood to have been guaranteed $750,000 each.

FISH AND GAME

Sturgeon Fishing Has Improved

By AL GIDDINGS

Both striped bass and sturgeon fishing locally showed some improvement over the weekend. Saturday afternoon Rich Luchessi of Inverness and Joe Bordessa of Petaluma came in with three bass weighing 25, 22 and 15 pounds. They also had one 70-pound sturgeon. They fished in San Pablo Bay by the pumphouse.

Sunday, Hazel Eddings of Buck's Landing on the Santa Venetia slough called. I knew then that things had perked up because this was her first call to me this spring. She reported bass and sturgeon anglers had scored with fair consistency over the weekend. Mike Le Feber of Santa Venetia took an 88-pound sturgeon, and six other sturgeon, all in the 60 pound bracket, were taken. I had to go to Sacramento Sunday, and while there? had smoked sturgeon. Those people have discovered grass shrimp as the hot bait, and in the last week or so, 16 sturgeon were taken from one hole in the Sacramento River. They use crayfish for bait, too.

Trolling for stripers from the bird cage area up to the S.P. Buoy in San Pablo Bay came alive a couple of times this past week. If you're lucky, and the birds are working either herring or anchovies in the area while you are there, put on a spoon and do some trolling. The time has been just about at the change of the high tide, when suddenly everything breaks loose, and fishing suddenly gets hot. It lasts about two hours.

WE PLANTED those silver salmon from the Noyo River in Paper Mill Creek last week. The total plant of silver slamon came to 30,000 yearlings. The plants went good with lots of help from the Taylor State Park rangers. Saturday, Warden Russ Ild and I checked the area and found three kids fishing right in the middle of the plant. The biggest kid, who was 16 years old, said he had caught 50 fish but released them all. (Sometimes this job is most frustrating!) Another guy was marching up and down the creek with a spear, saying he was frogging. It's enough to blow your mind! We gave the whole outfit a conservation lecture! The planted fish looked good and we're hoping they'll go to sea this week.

SAM KNOLES just called. Remember a week or so ago that he caught something everytime out for five straight trips. This week he was in the doldrums. Saturday he used 30 fresh ghost shrimps and had 50 crabs take all his bait; and the one striper that his guest Mickey Locki of Santa Venetia had on got away at the side of the boat. That's fishing.

Do you want to be a game warden? The test is coming up on May 6 with the final date for filing your application being April 14. Requirements are two years of college with a science major, or two years in State Park — Fish and Wildlife services, or three years time as a reserve Fish & Game warden. Write to the State Personnel Board, State Building, San Francisco, for the test scope if you are interested.

SALMON FISHING continues good with the fleet finding the fish hitting hot and heavy at times, and then slow.

Abalone season opens March 16 with a -0.2 low tide at 10:13 a.m. Not much of a tide, but there could be a few high strays around. The first fair tides start on March 26 at 6 a.m.

Campbell Sets NHL Expansion

NEW YORK (UPI)—The National Hockey League will admit two new teams in late May from among 10 applicants, including five from the Kansas City area, it was announced Monday.

Clarence Campbell, the NHL president, said the league would decide on the new clubs at its May 25 meeting in New York. Three of the Kansas City groups are in Misssouri and two in Kansas. The others were from Cincinnati, Cleveland, Indianapolis, Columbia, Md., and Dallas.

Campbell said four of the Kansas City groups have filed formal applications and the fifth also indicated that it would.

century and spent much of his time in Marin County.

SINCE I STARTED this thesis on the subject of southpaw pitchers, I might as well continue. Pick a color between purple and green. Blue, you say? Add a Vida and you have one of the major topics of the early season.

As we all know by now, A's owner Charles O. Finley wants to pay Blue $50,000 for his services and Vida's agent is holding out for $92,149.67, or something like that. I think it's the first time Finley has had so many fans and sports writers on his side. If Blue proves to be as great as he was last year, he will undoubtedly make a bushel of money. But one season does not a superstar make.

McCovey, Pitcher Hurt In Giants' Loss

SUN CITY, Ariz. (UPI)—Slugger Willie McCovey and pitcher Don Carrithers have come up hurting at the training camp of the San Francisco Giants.

McCovey began limping to first base after he singled in the first inning against the San Diego Padres and was removed from the game. It was apparent that the left knee of McCovey, operated on during the winter, was still bothering him.

"I took him out because I didn't want him to do any more running," said manager Charlie Fox. "He's still getting ice pack treatments and there's no use rushing him along."

Carrithers, being groomed as a starting pitcher, was hit in the leg with a line drive off the bat of Jerry Morales and had to leave after three innings though he was scheduled to work five.

Morales and Larry Stahl cracked home runs to pace the Padres to a 9-4 win. It left San Diego with a 7-0 spring record.

Righthander Jim Barr of the Giants gave up 11 hits and eight runs during his four innings. Rookie catcher Dave Rader socked a second-inning home run for San Francisco.

IN TRAINING:

Blue Fails To Show; Cleveland Drops A's

MESA, Ariz. (UPI)—The guessing and waiting game continues in the training camp of the Oakland Athletics.

Holdout pitcher Vida Blue didn't show up as some figured he would Monday. The 1971 Cy Young Award winner and Most Valuable Player in the American League reportedly was en route to Oakland via Arizona.

Blue and owner Charles O. Finley are deadlocked on the lefthander's 1972 contract. Finley has offered $50,000 but Blue's agent is suggesting he hold out for more than $90,000.

Meanwhile, A's starter Ken Holtzman gave up seven runs in five innings Monday as the Cleveland Indians defeated the A's 7-6. Holtzman allowed three hits and forced home two runs on bases-loaded walks.

"Ken threw a lot of pitches, 96 in five innings and that's about a whole ballgame," said Oakland manager Dick Williams. "But he was throwing the ball hard." Reggie Jackson of the A's hit a two-run pinch homer in the fifth and Mike Epstein and Bobby Brooks added solo shots.

Marin Catholic Net Team Bows To Analy

OVER OAKLAND A'S

Monday Prefers Cubs' Setup

By JOE SARGIS

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI)—Rick Monday, tickled to death to be with the Chicago Cubs and looking forward to a big season, said today agents are all right for professional athletes but no one should allow one to take over completely.

"I have an agent, if you want to call him that," Monday said, "but he knows how far he can go in handling my affairs. I make the decisions, he's more an advisor, and I think that's the way it should be with everyone else."

Monday, traded by the Oakland A's to the Chicago Cubs during the off season in exchange for pitcher Ken Holtzman, said he likes his new organization and sees it as far superior to the one he left behind.

"Things are better organized in the front office," Monday said of Cubs. "With the A's, it is a one man operation and I think there is just too much to do and not enough time to do it for one man such as Mr. Finley."

Mr. Finley, of course, is Charlie Finley, who runs the A's from top to bottom from his insurance office in Chicago.

Monday said he always got along fine with Finley and while he didn't see eye to eye with his old boss, he feels Charlie is in the right in the hassle to sign pitcher Vida Blue to a 1972 contract.

"Heck, I'm a player myself and ordinarily I'm on the player's side in salary squabbles," said Monday, "but in Blue's case I think Mr. Finley made him a fair offer. He could sign Blue in a minute for $50,000 if he sweetens the pie a little with under the table money."

Monday said the trouble with most agents is that they want to take over an athlete completely.

"Maybe some guys need that kind of agent," said Monday, "but I think they make a big mistake. For instance, all my agents did for me with the Cubs was find out what kind of organization they run and what kind of salary schedule they had in mind. Then, I took it from there. Mr. (JOHN) Holland and I talked for a few minutes, he made me an offer and I accepted.

"Of course, as in the case with most agents, mine got his 10 per cent, but I'm not interested in that as much as I am in his ability to get me some outside income such as commercial spots. Actually, that's the big reason I have an agent—to get me extra money aside from what I make in salary."

One thing Monday doesn't have to worry about is his future with the Cubs, at least not as long as Leo Durocher is the team's manager.

"Rick Monday is a fine ball player and a fine person, and more than that what can I say about him," Durocher says. "Easily, he is the best centerfielder I've had in my six years with the Cubs and the only ones I had in my years of managing who were in his class were Peter Reiser, Duke Snider and Willie Mays.

"Monday, I'm sure, will hit over .300 once he gets over his military commitment, and in the outfield he's right there with the best in the game today. He can go a long way for the ball and he can throw it when he catches up to it. On top of that, he is a fine bunter, has great speed and knows how to run the bases. I think he's a fine addition to our team."

Monday batted only .245 last year but he hit 18 homers and drove in 56 runs. Three times he had to leave baseball behind for military duty and sometimes it took a half dozen games for him to regain his timing.

"I finish up my commitment this year," said Monday. "I'm not complaining, though. Putting in reserve time is better than serving a hitch."

FOR JENKINS

'Hard Work' Is Formula

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Ferguson Jenkins, the National League's Cy Young Award winner in 1971, is just about ready to lead the Chicago Cubs' staff this year —and if you don't believe it, ask him.

"I'm about three turns away from opening the season," said Jenkins Monday after yielding only two singles in five innings in a 12-2 triumph over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Jenkins, whose 24-13 record in 325 ipnings earned him the NL's pitcher of the year award, is shooting for his sixth straight 20-victory season. Although a veteran, he is one of the hardest-working pitchers in the game and readily admits: "I'm in the $100,000 class now and the way I got there is by working hard. That's what I'm doing now and that's the way I'll win 20 again."

Jenkins, who has missed one turn in the last four years (when his mother died), is expected to be the Clubs' key pitcher.

The New York Mets, meanwhile, are concerned about Tom Seaver, their 20-game winner of last season and a Cy Young Award winner in 1969 when he had a 25-7 record. Seaver missed his second scheduled assignment today because of a stiffness in his right shoulder.

Weekly Classes On Boating Set In San Rafael

A new 12-week boating and safety class will start Monday, 7:30 p.m. at San Rafael High School, room 101.

The weekly two-hour classes, sponsored and taught by instructors of the Coast Guard Auxiliary, Flotilla 14, in San Rafael, will cost participants approximately $2 for a book, "Boating Safety and Seamanship," according to Jack Heinen, the auxiliary's public education officer.

Weekly topics include: safe way to boating enjoyment; sailors' language; boat handling; legal requirements; rules of the road (water); aids to navigation; charts and compass; marine engines; marlinspike, the art of handling ropes; sailboats; weather; and radio telephone.

Warriors Visit Boston Tonight

BOSTON (UPI) —Coach Al Attles wants his Golden State Warriors to earn the right to be in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

"We want to finish second and get in the playoffs," he said, "but we don't want to back in, with us losing and Seattle losing. You can't go into the playoffs on a downhill slide. You've got to be winning when you go in."

That means the Warriors will be shooting for their fourth win in five games over the Boston Celtics tonight at Boston Garden. Golden State's only loss to the Celtics was by two points, 99-97, on Dec. 27.

Boston is first in the NBA's Atlantic Division while the Warriors are second in the Pacific Division, two games ahead of third-place Seattle.

Cincinnati ended the Warriors six-game win streak Sunday.

"Actually, we match up with Boston a lot better than we do with Cincinnati," said Attles.

Wildcat J.V.s Win

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

How Did He Know Shares Would Dip?

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Some years ago I bought 100 Family Finance at $20; it is now under $12. I could have bought Beneficial or Household Finance at about the same price. How was I to know one would go down while the others went up? — M.G.

A. Two indications of the comparative quality of these three NYSE firms were available at the time of your purchase in the mid-1960s. Earnings trends for the three were a primary indicator. After a strong uptrend, year-to-year earnings gains had slowed down and in 1966 lower results were reported by Family Finance.

In contrast, both of the other companies had maintained strong uptrends. As a result Beneficial and Household shares were appraised at consistently higher price earnings multiples.

The percentage of earnings paid out to shareholders as dividends by Family Finance was and still is far greater than that paid by the other two loan companies. Earnings which are distributed to shareholders obviously are not available to generate corporate growth.

However, the fact is you hold Family Finance and it is the future of this company which is your concern now. The outlook for FAM is improving — loan volume has moved up strongly and subsidiary operations are contributing increasingly to results.

Management has been striving to increase loan volume while reducing by half the time required to write off noncollectable accounts. Shares have above-average speculative turnaround potential.

Q. Addresses of corporations, their transfer agents and registrars are very difficult to come by. Can you suggest any easy way to find these? — E.S.

A. Most corporate information releases which are sent to shareholders, reports such as annual meeting notices, dividend notices and earnings reports include at least the corporate address.

Annual reports most always list all three. Moody's Manuals, Standard & Poor's Corporate Records and Individual Stock Reports all carry this information. If your public library has none of these research volumes then perhaps your broker would be willing to supply the addresses for you.

Market Rebounds, Moves Up

NEW YORK (UPI) —Rebounding from a limp opening, the stock market moved higher during the first two hours of trading today. Turnover on the New York Stock Exchange was fairly active.

Advances topped declines, 665 to 553, among the 1,594 issues crossing the tape. The two-hour volume was more than 6,720,000 shares.

Investors might have been encouraged by a Commerce Department report that manufacturing and trade sales rose 3 per cent in January to a record seasonally adjusted $120.62 billion from $116.96 billion in December.

In addition, the dollar, which had been buffeted in foreign exchange markets last week, stood firm for the second consecutive day. Last week's attack had prompted concern about the world monetary situation.

Prices were also slightly higher in fairly active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Litton Industries was the most active NYSE issue, off 1-4. A block of 102,200 traded at 19 1-4, off 5-8. Whittaker Corp., the most active issue Monday, again was on the active list, up 1-4.

Steel Upswing Moves In

By S. M. MARSHALL
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Reports emanating from Pittsburgh, Pa., and the nation's other steelmaking centers indicate that the long-anticipated upsurge in orders and shipments of the gray metal is materializing.

March was expected to be an especially good month, perhaps the best since the late spring and early summer of last year when steel users increased their orders to build supplies in case of an industrywide strike.

The strike never occured, orders fell off sharply as the users trimmed their fat inventories, and it remained to be seen whether the anticipated upturn in the economy would come along and give the steel companies a much-needed boost.

"There seems little doubt that 1972 will witness an upswing in steel demand," said the Research Institute of America in a comprehensive study of the industry.

"We expect a 6 per cent increase in domestic steel consumption this year, and we believe the industry's total shipments could rise by about 9 per cent as the result of increased restrictions on imports," commented Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith in its own study.

The steel stocks, of course, have posted a strong advance in anticipation of the improvement in business. The increases for the seven biggest producers in the six weeks of the post-Thanksgiving Day rally averaged 25 per cent.

But many of the steel stocks have been stalled since then, reflecting disappointing industry shipments in January and February. The improving picture for March may change that and the longer-term values for the issues may finally be established.

"As purveyors of a basic raw material," said the research institute, "the steelmakers can look forward to increasing demand during the upswing phase of the business cycle now gathering momentum.

"At the same time, the efficiency and profitability of their operations are being accentuated by such technological advances as basic oxygen furnaces, computerized rolling mills, continuous casting and vacuum degasing."

The institute says United States Steel, the industry giant, will need considerable time to surmount the problems entailed in applying new technology to its huge and varied operations.

However, National Steel is viewed as a company likely to make more rapid earnings progress because of its more advanced technology and its recent acquisition of Granite City Steel, which extended National's geographical coverage.

The institute also likes Bethlehem Steel, second only to U.S. Steel in production and a dominant factor in shipbuilding, which is experiencing high demand at present. The company has improved its position both technologically and geographically.

By coincidence, Argus Research, another leading research firm, also likes both National and Bethlehem, although it notes that both have already turned in strong stock-market performances.

"The stocks of both Bethlehem and National have been responding well to the favorable outlook for the steel industry in 1972 — a 9 per cent increase in shipment volume, an improved pricing structure and realization of efficiencies from cost reduction programs and modern facilities," Argus commented.

The firm also is favorable toward Lykes-Youngstown — which resulted from the merger of Youngstown Sheet & Tube into Lykes, a steamship concern — because both steel and shipping are likely to experience uptrends this year.

Standard & Poor's feels United States Steel is "worth holding for price recovery," because of the good-sized increase in earnings that should occur this year. "The higher revenues, combined with generally firmer prices, should readily absorb a sharp increase in labor costs," the research firm said.

Dean Witter & Co., the big brokerage firm, commented: "The steels have outperformed the market over the last six months and should continue to do well for the next six to nine months.

"We have just completed an econometric model of steel consumption that basically confirms our expectations for 1972 and indicates that steel consumption for 1973 will advance an additional 5 per cent. We think this follow-on strength will modestly increase 1973 earnings."

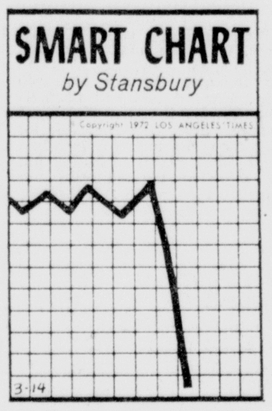
NEW SMALL TRUCK

Built by Isuzu Motors, Inc., of Tokyo, this small pickup truck, called Luv, will be imported and marketed by Chevrolet late this month. Initially it will be sold only in the coastal areas of the U.S. where strong demand exists. It will carry a 1,100-pound load plus driver and passenger. Cars will be sold in Marin by Campbell-Bishop Chevrolet, Corte Madera; Empire Chevrolet, Novato; De Long Chevrolet, San Rafael; and Cheda Chevrolet, Point Reyes Station.



"Telling it like it is didn't work out too well at the stockholders' meeting."

2.5 Million Cans Are Recycled

About two and one-half million aluminum cans were turned in to the Golden Gate Distributing Co. of San Rafael in the Coors cash-for-cans program in 1971.

The company, at 1942 Fourth Street, is the Adolph Coors Co. distributor for Marin and Southern Sonoma.

Charles I. Daniels Jr., owner, and Vern Silva, division manager, said that local collections totaled 107,550 pounds of aluminum in 1971, a huge increase over the 23,000 pounds collected in 1970, first year of the cash-for-cans program.

Since the program started two years ago, Golden Gate Distributing has paid out more than $13,000 to individuals and organizations which collected the aluminum for recycling. The cans are worth a dime a pound.

The company accepts all clean aluminum containers two days a week — Monday and Thursday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Eureka Federal's First Marin Branch Office To Open In July

Huck Gilbert

Eureka Federal Savings and Loan Association will open its first Marin County branch office at Northgate Mall near the Emporium about July 1 this year.

The company, established in 1890, has nine offices in the Bay Area, with headquarters in San Francisco. The Marin branch will be the 10th office. Its total assets are in excess of $272 million.

A spokesman for the firm said the Marin branch will probably have the same office hours as other branches — 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Fridays. The manager of the Marin office has not been named as yet.

JACK F. GILBERT of Mill Valley has been promoted to assistant vice president in Wells Fargo Bank's head office commercial loan department, San Francisco. He was formerly loan officer. Gilbert joined Wells Fargo in 1964.

ROBERT L. HUCK of Terra Linda, vice president of Store Planning Associates in San Francisco, has won an award for "excellence in interior design" for his firm's work in designing the new Macy's store in San Jose. The award came from the National Association of Store Fixture Manufacturers and Institute of Store Planners.

A NEW COMPANY that specializes in completing products for all types of companies has been formed in Mill Valley.

Product Completion Co. of 209 Hawthorne Avenue will complete such work as assembling merchandise, collating, typing reports, hand addressing or typing envelopes for direct mailing, product bagging, wrapping and stuffing.

Mrs. Hyla J. Banister is owner and operator. "This firm was formed to help the businessman who does not want to hire personnel for one time tasks and wants the most for his dollar," Mrs. Banister said.

BAP OF MARIN (import auto parts), formerly on Jacoby Street in San Rafael, has expanded and moved to 919-923 Francisco Boulevard. It took over the front portion of the building formerly occupied by Marin Sports Imports. E. R. Oden of San Rafael, who has nine years experience in the new and used car business, is retail sales manager for BAP of Marin.

Marin Sports Imports still operates its automotive repair service in the back portion of the building but gave up its dealership of Jeeps and Triumphs.

The Jeep-Triumph dealership was taken over by Brown Motors Inc. at 933 Francisco Boulevard. Brown Motors now handles Jeeps and Triumps in addition to Alfa Romeo and Fiat.

NEW OWNERS took over the Golden Apple Beauty Salon at 1450 Grant Avenue, Novato, this month, but the name and services will continue unchanged.

Harold G. and Mary Mayfield of Novato took over the salon from Sybil P. McDonald of Petaluma and Henry Grossi of Novato. Mrs. Mayfield formerly worked at the Helen of Troy Beauty Salon in Novato.

Mrs. McDonald, former owner, will continue working at the Golden Apple for the new owners.

CAL-FARM Insurance Co. has opened new offices in Petaluma at 620 East Washington Street, suite 13.

Michael Broderick and Gerald Ownby of Petaluma will staff the new office. Broderick has been associated with Cal-Farm Insurance for four years, working through the home office in Berkeley.

FRED F. ENEMARK of San Rafael, president of Bell Savings and Loan Association, announced the appointment of John E. McLaughlin as vice president and savings operations officer.

McLaughlin, 35, was previously vice president and branch manager for a major San Francisco office of American Savings and Loan. He will coordinate the savings operations of all Bell Savings.

McLaughlin lives with his wife and two children in San Francisco.

THE ANDREWS AGENCY, a new marketing and advertising agency headed by a Marin resident, opened this month at 319 Eleventh Street, San Francisco. President is Richard R. Andrews of San Rafael, formerly vice president and creative director of The Wyman Co., San Francisco.

COOPER & KERR, San Rafael certified public accountants at 1005 A Street, will move to the La Plaza building at Northgate Industrial Park about June. William Hoey Co. arranged the lease of the new quarters for the CPA firm.

INVITATION FOR PROPOSAL

Sealed bids will be received at the office of Marin Municipal Water District, 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, California 94925, until 9:00 a.m. Tuesday, March 21, 1972, at which time they will be opened and read in the Board of Directors room by the Secretary or her designated representative for furnishing labor, equipment and materials for the preparation of surfaces and coating of a 500,000 gallon welded steel water tank at the District's Bret Harte site, San Rafael, California.

The general prevailing rate of wages in the locality in which work is to be performed has been ascertained by the District and published under the provisions of Section 1773 of the California Labor Code.

Copies of the prevailing wage rates are on file in the office of the Secretary of the District at 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, and in the office of the Marin County Clerk, and are available upon request from the Secretary at the above address and also from the Marin County Department of Public Works, Civic Center, Room 304, San Rafael, California.

Sundays and holidays shall not be less than two (2) times the above rates. The holidays upon which such rates shall be paid shall be all holidays recognized in the collective bargaining agreement applicable to the particular craft, classification or type of workman employed on the project.

It shall be mandatory upon the Contractor to whom the contract is awarded and upon any subcontractor under him to pay not less than the said specified rates to all laborers, workmen and mechanics employed by them in the execution of the contract.

Proposals will be considered for the complete job only. The proposal must be submitted on the form provided and must be accompanied by a Certified Check, Cash, Post Office Money Order or Bid Bond as a guarantee that the bidder will, if successful, promptly execute a satisfactory contract and furnish bonds as required by these specifications. The Certified Check, Cash, Post Office Money Order or Bid Bond shall be not less than ten (10) percent of the total amount of the bid and shall be made payable to the Treasurer of the Marin Municipal Water District.

Proposals must be submitted in a sealed envelope addressed to the attention of Mrs. Norma L. Smith, Secretary, with the words "Proposal for Coating the Bret Harte Tank" clearly marked on the outside of the envelope.

Specifications may be obtained at 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera, the office of the District. The $25.00 deposit required for each set of specifications will be refunded when specifications are returned to the District. It is requested that those Contractors wishing a Water District representative to accompany them on their first visit to the site of the work, notify the District sufficiently in advance so that necessary arrangements may be made.

Progress payments will be made.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Dramatic Changes Made In Rheumatic Fever Treatment

During the past 15 years, dramatic changes have taken place in the treatment of rheumatic fever. To better understand this statement, we must go back to how the disease behaved before World War II. One attack of rheumatic fever did not confer immunity; if anything, it made a person more susceptible to another attack. During these years, four out of five children who had the disease could expect a flareup if they developed a sore throat caused by the same type of strep that triggered the initial bout. This usually took place 14 days after the streptococcal infection.

WITH EACH succeeding bout of rheumatic fever, there was additional damage to the heart, especially if the valves had been nipped during the first attack. The result was rheumatic heart disease with leakage due to scarring of the valves. The life expectancy for many of the victims was 42 years. Those who lived long enough to witness the debut of cardiac surgery got a reprieve.

The sufonamides and antibiotics changed all of this. Now when a person (usually a child) recovers from an attack of rheumatic fever, he is given daily prophylactic doses of penicillin or sulfadiazine for five years or indefinitely for those with severe heart trouble. Those who take prophylaxis conscientiously have an excellent chance of avoiding a recurrence. This lessens the incidence of the disease.

MEANWHILE, physicians began to do routine throat cultures on children with fever and sore throat to determine whether strep were responsible. If the test was positive, penicillin was given for 10 days, thus avoiding rheumatic fever in susceptible children. This further lessened the incidence of the disease.

Today, in some parts of the country, rheumatic fever is becoming an uncommon condition. There is some evidence that theumatic fever still exists, but it appears in so mild a form, it is often unrecognized. There may be little or no fever, very little swelling and pain of the joints, abdominal pain, and some evidence of heart involvement. Rheumatic fever can occur at any age. It is, however, most common in childhood possibly because strep infections tend to drecrease with age.

HAIR AND STRENGTH

L. L. writes: Does letting the hair grow almost to the waistline rob a young girl of her strength?

REPLY

Not unless she becomes weak combing it and tugging on snarls.

NITROGEN MUSTARD

T. M. writes: Is nitrogen mustard, as used in the treatment of cancer, the same as the mustard we eat?

REPLY

No. The term mustard gas is a misnomer. It probably was given this name because it smells like the mustard we put on hot dogs and hamburgers.

DAMAGED HEART

G. H. writes: After recovery from a heart attack, is the electrocardiogram normal or does it show the damage thereafter.

REPLY

Some return to normal but in the majority, telltale signs remain, indicating an old (ancient according to some interpreters) healed heart attack.

The San Anselmo School District board will meet tonight with chairmen of the district's six study committees to discuss the committees' reports.

Candidates For Novato Council List Major Items Of Concern

Planning, taxes, light industry, environment and communication are on the priority lists of 11 candidates for the Novato City Council, according to a survey by the League of Women Voters of Central Marin and the Novato branch of the American Association of University Women.

Candidates set their priorities in written response to the question from the two organizations: "What are your priorities for Novato and how do you propose to deal with them?"

Geoffrey J. Bywater, 18, a student, called for "bridging the gap between young and adult voters." He said Novato "must be balanced socially and economically by initiating well-planned and diverse townhousing projects." The natural beauty of the city can be preserved by keeping "down the number of townhouse units and their overall density," he said.

Bywater also listed introduction of light, nonpolluting industry, and a youth center "where youth can channel their energies toward constructive activities."

Daniel P. Donovan, 39, attorney and pharmacist, said, "The number one priority for Novato is completion of the Novato General Plan which should establish a reasonable density for Novato in future development."

The housing element "should provide for balanced housing and subsidized housing should be limited to the needs of the community," he said.

Donovan also said he would encourage a centralized community shopping center.

Anthony M. Gullotta, 55, assistant county elections officer, gave priority to preserving "the environmental beauty of Novato by carefully scrutinizing all applications, construction plans and specifications of all proposed subdivisions before granting a building permit."

Gullotta also listed achieving "a lower tax by encouraging clean, light industry that will have no adverse impact on the environment of Novato," and would provide local jobs for Novato residents.

David Price Jones, 33, an attorney, said "My first priority is revision of the general plan and zoning ordinance to preserve the amenities that make Novato a desirable place to live."

Jones also called for implementation of the downtown plan, possibly through a public-private assessment district to financially assist in development of a regional shopping center, and listed as his third aim, street improvements, "with immediate reconstruction on Center Road, Tamalpais and Vallejo avenues."

John N. Morrison, 31, an investment firm owner, said, "Of urgent priority is creation of effective communication channels. I proposed to establish a system whereby all residents will be thoroughly informed on important issues and be able to express their feelings regarding these issues directly to the council.

"The noisy wheels (which tend to represent extreme views on the issues) are fighting for the grease — creating a clamor that leaves many voices unheard, prevents real communication and satisfies few Novato residents," Morrison said.

Carlos M. Newton, 52, construction firm partner, listed a reduced budget and lower taxes "by merging departments with parallel or overlapping operations."

Newton also called for a teenage center, summer jobs for students, tighter restrictions on subdivisions on "problem property," and completion of a revised general plan.

Donald Richards, 40, a school personnel director, said his priority was "to limit tax collection to mose available from present sources at the present rate."

He said he would determine other priority items, if elected, "based upon a comprehensive orientation by the city manager and other elected or appointed officials."

Fred F. Ruegg, 60, retired network executive, said "The certainty of growth must be faced and then carefully directed and controlled. This will require realistic long-range planning based on objective, factual information rather than emotion."

Ruegg said Novato's tax base must be broadened by encouraging reoail outlets, bufiness and clean, light industry, which would create a "better balanced community, create more jobs and halt the spiral of rising taxes."

Edward T. Ryken, executive director of the Marin County Senior Coordinating Council, said, "The issues of greatest importance facing the city council are the development of a planning policy that will enable Novato to accommodate reasonable growth while preserving our hillsides, ridges, creeks, trees, clean air, etc. for all Novatans." Also involvement of residents in setting priorities for capital improvements and land purchases, and fulfillment of the downtown plan.

John C. Schoonover, 44, accounting executive, said, "I will give high priority to a comprehensive environmental analysis of our community", which would provide a framework for revision of the Novato General Plan.

"We must acquire land now to ensure future availability for parks and open space," he said. "I will encourage increased involvement of Novato's citizens at all levels of community government."

Dorothy P. Young, an attorney, gave priority to developing "additional sources of revenue by actively soliciting light industry of a nonpollutant type to locate in Novato."

The revenue could not only reduce property taxes but could enable the city to achieve needed improvements such as road work, sidewalks near schools, acquisition of park land, public recreational facilities and preservation of the environment, Mrs. Young said.

She also called for uniting the various interest groups in Novato and developing better understanding between residents and local governing bodies.

The League and the University Women will cosponsor a candidates' night at 8 p.m. March 23 at Marion School.

Tomales Motel Plans Rejected

Two proposals to alter plans for a motel-residential development on Tamales Bay were rejected yesterday by the Marin County Planning Commission following another clash between conservationists and developers.

The development, proposed by Herbert H. Angress of Marshall, calls for a 60-unit motel and lodge plus 10 condominiums and 15 homes on his 20-acre parcel at 21300 Shoreline Highway.

Plans for the development were approved two years ago by the planning commission which at the same time zoned half the parcel for commercial use (motel) and the other half for residential.

However, conservationists proposed yesterday that the entire parcel be zoned commercial — thus doing away with the residential development. The developer, meanwhile, proposed the motel be changed to condominiums.

After five hours of discussion, the commission rejected both ideas and the development stands as approved two years ago.

Conservationists, headed by Harold Gregg of the Marin Conservation League and dairyman William Straus of Marshall, argued that residential use of the land would be detrimental to Straus's nearby dairying operation.

Attorney Gil Medeiros of San Rafael, representing Angress, countered, however, that two years ago the conservation league had supported the plan. Further, he said, the 206 acres proposed for development had once been owned by Straus (in partnership with Angress) and that Straus had proposed a residential development there himself.

The commission voted 4-2 to reject the proposed rezoning, with Commissioner William B. Lynch abstaining, saying he didn't approve the residential use but could not vote to overturn an earlier commission's approval. Commissioners Rebecca Watkin and John F. West voted against.

Angress proposed changing the motel to a "recreational condominium" in which units would be sold to individuals who in turn would rent them part of the year. He said he couldn't finance a quality motel but could raise money for such a condominium.

The commission rejected that proposal, 5-2, with commissioners Watkin and Leonard dissenting.

Special Panel Will Probe Poor Housing

The Marin County Planning Commission yesterday endorsed creation of a special committee to study the legal and technical problems in requiring developers to provide housing for the poor.

The proposed 18-member committee, described by Commissioner Margaret B. Azevedo, would include architects, developers, attorneys, financiers, planners and representatives from nonprofit housing associations.

According to Mrs. Azevedo, the committee when formed will attempt to establish enforceable rules for requiring developers to provide a percentage of new homes in a project to be designated for low and moderate-income families.

The Marin Planning Commission also:

PACHECO RANCH — Continued to April 24, a hearing on the proposed 694-unit apartment and townhouse master plan for the historic Pacheco Ranch near Ignacio. The commission was told the matter may be referred to the City of Novato since annexation plans now are under way.

Wife Admits Nagging Husband To Spying

LONDON (UPI)—A nagging wife who loved to play bingo and buy new clothes helped turn David Bingham into a Soviet spy. Today he began a 21 year prison sentence for listening to her.

"He never wanted to do it, right from the start," Maureen Bingham said of her husband David, a Sub-Lieutenant and torpedo expert in the Royal Navy. "I nagged him into becoming a spy. I pushed him all the way."

Not only was he an unwilling agent, the 35-year-old former waitress said, "he was an incompetent spy."

A British Crown Court Monday sentenced Bingham, 31, to prison for selling defense secrets "almost beyond price" to the Soviets to ease debts. His wife was not charged.

"He did it for me and the children," Mrs. Bingham said. "I shall never know why I wasn't charged."

"I was the one who passed on information through the dead letter boxes. I don't think David even knew where all of them were.

She said they decided to sell military secrets to the Soviets to pay bills accumulated after Bingham rose through the ranks and was commissioned. He was awarded a Sword of Honor for being the top officer in his graduating class. The Binghams later pawned it.

"I was badly overdrawn at the bank. I needed extra money for clothes to enable me to mix with other officers' wives," Mrs. Bingham said after the sentencing. "We had to go to the Commander-in-Chief's garden party. It lasted an hour and a half. I had to have an outfit for that."

Bingham said he flew home from Australia on compassionate leave in 1969 to try to sort things out. He found their furniture pawned, their installment-plan appliances sold and several legal actions pending.

"She had been playing bingo," Bingham said.

On an annual salary of $4,680, they were $5,200 in debt.

"David said jokingly I'll have to take you up and drop you outside the Russian embassy. "Yes, I said, and I can just see myself going up and knocking on the door and saying: 'Have you got any vacancies for spies?"

"Later, I thought, why not?"

"It was so simple, it was stupid," Mrs. Bingham said.

She first went to the Soviet embassy in Kensington in February, 1970 in the middle of an anti-Soviet demonstration by British Jews.

Police held back the demonstrators to shepherd her through.

"I was carrying a letter giving details about my husband", she said. "It was presumed I was handing in a protest petition."

Two weeks later she was invited to a Soviet embassy party. She took along her son, one of their four adopted children.

"The Russians knew all about me even to the color of the curtains at home," she said. "I had obviously been well checked."

For the next year, until he turned himself in to his commanding officer, Bingham passed details of ship maneuvers, fleet movements and statistics on the strength of several western navies to the Soviets through intricate parcel drops and meetings.

"I know we got at least $13,000 out of the Russians," Mrs. Bingham said. "They gave us money like water."

Library To Reopen Thursday

San Rafael Library Board agreed last night to put 15 newly acquired prints of famous paintings on pre-lending display during National Library Week, April 17-22, to help attract visitors to the newly carpeted public library.

Carpeting is expected to be completed to allow reopening of the library Thursday, said head librarian Vivian Smith. It has been closed since last Wednesday. The board met last night in the city hall.

The board agreed to ask the now-forming Friends of the San Rafael Library to sound out public opinion on a proposal to relocate the library on Courthouse Square and keep the remainder of the square as a downtown park.

In preliminary study of the proposed library budget for fiscal 1972-73, board members pared it from $201,952 to $200,452. This year's budget is $189,952. Another meeting on the budget was set for 8 p.m. April 3 in the library.

Trustee James A. Meyer was absent.

A Warning On Curbing Meat Prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said today there will be meat rationing and empty meat counters if consumers force the government to clamp price controls on beef.

Cattle and retail beef prices were reported at record levels recently. Butz today predicted further zig-zag increases and insisted the uptrend will help consumers by encouraging added production.

The blunt-talking Butz, in a speech prepared for delivery to the Texas and Southwest Cattle Raisers Association at Houston, added that the administration's decision last week to raise allowable beef imports by 7 per cent will not dampen prices.

Some administration officials earlier had referred to an increase in imports as one step to help ease retail price pressures. But Butz assured the cattlemen:

"It's so small an increase in total beef supplies that it shouldn't even cause a flutter in the market."

Butz, promising again to fight "like a wounded steer" against controls on food prices, warned against pressures to impose controls because of recent price hikes.

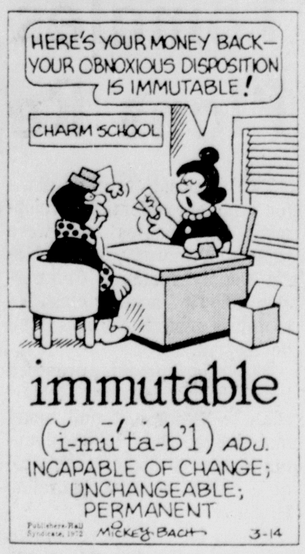
Car Hits Car — Youth Injured

Craig S. Moreno, 18, of 242 Calle De La Selva, Novato, suffered facial cuts when his car struck a parked car near 702 Ignacio Boulevard, Novato, at 2:06 a.m. Sunday, according to city police.

Officers said Moreno's westbound car struck a parked car owned by Joseph Dean of Oakland. The impact sent Dean's car into the yard of Frederick N. Stiteler at 702 Ignacio Boulevard where it knocked down a roof support in the carport, police said.

Moreno was treated at Marin General Hospital.

WORD-A-DAY



The Pandas Will Go To Capitol Zoo

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The two giant pandas China is giving to the American people will arrive about April 1 to take up residence in Washington's National Zoo, where President Nixon has decided they will be kept.

A White House spokesman said there were many fine zoos in the country which deserved to house the rare pandas, but Nixon felt the National Zoo was a proper home because it represented all the people. The spokesman also said the climate in Washington was compatible with what pandas require.

Milton and Matilda, the two musk oxen to be flown from San Francisco to Peking as gifts from President Nixon, have recovered from the sniffles.

Their departure had been delayed because of colds, but San Francisco Zoo officials announced Monday that they were now in "perfect health."

Zoo Director Ronald Reuther said Milton and Matilda should be on their way to China early next month.

"They've completely recovered from their colds, but we're not taking any chances," he said. "We're keepig them off public display for security reasons and to make sure they stay in top form."

Texans Will Vote On Busing

DALLAS (UPI)—Voters in the May 6 Texas primary will have the opportunity to express their opinion on whether there should be a constitutional amendment prohibiting busing of children for school integration.

The wording will differ on the Republican and Democratic ballots, but the issue is substantially the same.

The result will not be binding on anyone, but leaders of both parties meeting separately Monday to adopt rules said voters should be allowed to express an opinion one way or the other.

Candidate Night Set In Larkspur

The Larkspur Chamber of Commerce has scheduled a candidate night for city council aspirants March 23.

Sue Schaefer, president of the chamber, said all seven candidates have promised to speak beginning at 7 p.m. in the Henry C. Hall School multi-purpose room.

Two Hurt In Bike Accident

Two Southern Marin teenagers were injured Saturday in a bicycle accident in San Geronimo.

The youths, Timothy Anderson, 16, of 534 Northern Avenue, Mill Valley, and Jonathan Pankin, 18, of 9 Cazneau Avenue, Sausalito, were driven by a motorist into San Anselmo shortly before noon, where police then took them to Marin General Hospital.

Anderson was treated at Marin General for an injured elbow. Pankin was transferred to Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Francisco and he was reported in good condition there today with a broken left wrist.

No details of the accident were available.

Arrest Made In Bomb Threats To An Airline

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—FBI agents have arrested a 31-year-old Salt Lake City truck driver on a bridge just east of Riverton, Utah, in connection with a series of bomb threats against United Air Lines.

In custody was Ronald D. Rearick, who agents said was carrying a ransom package delivered just moments earlier by a UAL official.

A telephone caller had notified United Air Lines offices Monday morning that two bombs were on UAL flights. The caller then demanded a ransom of $1 million to disclose the whereabouts of the bombs, an FBI spokesman said.

UAL flights leaving Salt Lake International Airport were delayed throughout the day while searchers probed for the bombs. None was found, authorities said.

All about pay phones.

(How the "darned things" work and why they sometimes don't.)

If a pay phone doesn't get your call through, you should get your coin back when you hang up the receiver. And, if you don't, the coin return button should return your coin.

A pay phone that swallows your dime and refuses to give it back is definitely out of order. So if you don't succeed at first with a pay phone, do not try again. You'll just be throwing good money after bad.

Beating up the phone won't get your dime back. Calling the operator will.

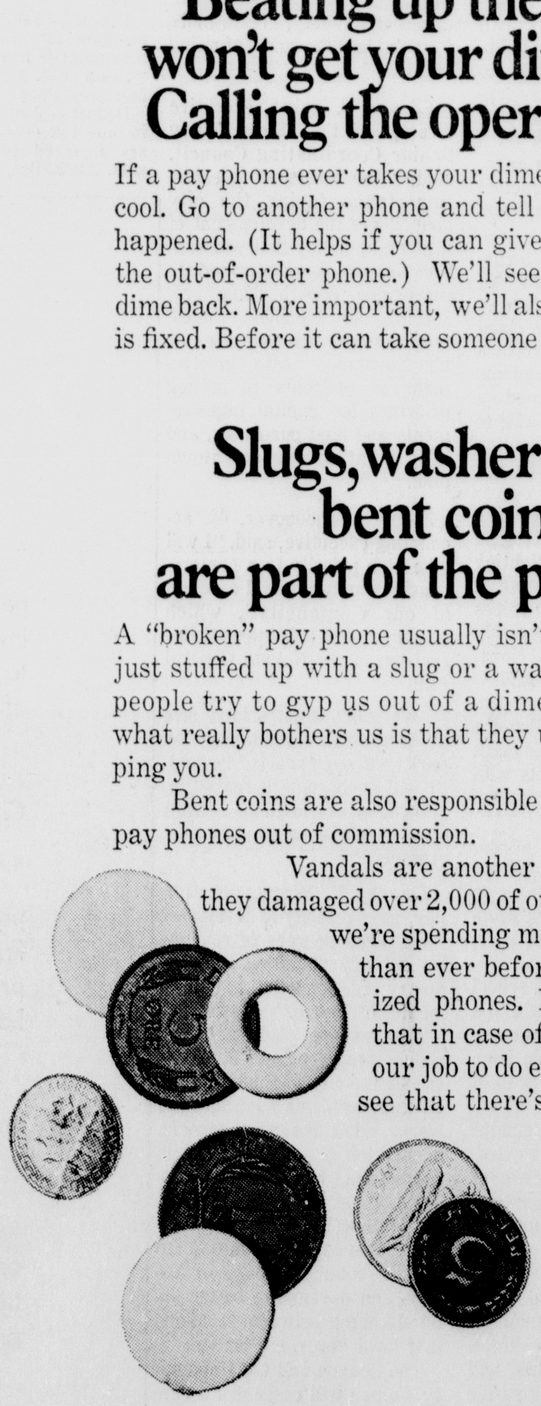
If a pay phone ever takes your dime, please try to keep cool. Go to another phone and tell the Operator what happened. (It helps if you can give us the number of the out-of-order phone.) We'll see that you get your dime back. More important, we'll also see that the phone is fixed. Before it can take someone else's dime.

Slugs, washers, and bent coins are part of the problem.

A "broken" pay phone usually isn't broken at all. It's just stuffed up with a slug or a washer. The fact that people try to gyp us out of a dime is one thing. But what really bothers us is that they usually end up gypping you.

Bent coins are also responsible for putting a lot of pay phones out of commission.

Vandals are another problem. Last year they damaged over 2,000 of our phones. This year we're spending more time and money than ever before to repair vandalized phones. Because we realize that in case of an emergency, it's our job to do everything we can to see that there's a phone available.



What we're doing about the problem.

We're installing a new type of pay phone. In fact, we already have them installed in over 35% of our locations. They have a new type of coin slot, so it's harder to jam them up with slugs or washers. Or bent coins. And they're so ruggedly built, they're almost vandal-proof.

All pay phones, no matter where they're located, are checked regularly to make sure they're working. Of course, occasionally a customer is still going to get to an out-of-order pay phone before we do. And maybe lose a dime. If it happens to you, please call an Operator and let us know. Not only will you be saving yourself a dime, you'll also be helping us.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the allowed dollar allowances:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wear-Out Allowance
Primero 35,000 miles WTO/Radial 40,000 miles	Prorated on Miles Driven

Tread Wear Expectancy offer does not apply to tires used commercially.
